TO ADVERTISERS.

MR. MERCHANT, the public has been harangued too long. Its ears are ringing. Its eyes are weary with following wild gestures of inexperienced, amateur advertisers. Intelligence has been insulted too often. Its credulity stretched too far. Readers turn with relief to low-priced, moderate, non-exaggerated advertisements, booklets, circulars, business letters, etc., because they appeal to reason. The public weighs words carefully, and the balance swings toward the more solid ones. Let me show you the "difference" in advertising. Terms reasonable. George M. Zellmer, care of Kingston Freeman.

ARMY READY TO INVADE MEXICO

Mediation Plans Likely to be Disrupted at any Moment—More War Supplies Arrive for Huerta.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, May 9.—The army is on the mark ready for the signal to proceed to Vera Cruz. Mediation is in imminent peril of being flung to the winds and the national capital is prepared for the news that the long expected order "On to Mexico City" has been issued.

While no orders for the embarkation of troops followed the announcement that the war department had arranged to charter six large steamships to be used in transporting the balance of the second army to Vera Cruz, Secretary Garrison assured the general staff today that if it became necessary to throw additional forces into Mexico the plans formed by the war college would not be disturbed.

Mediation is almost forgotten in official circles and attention is concentrated on the war department in the expectancy of orders pressing hostilities in Mexico. Constitutionalist and Huertista so far as their relations with the "A. B. C." envoys were about forgotten in the anticipation of a decisive move which will put an end to mediation at once.

They may as Secretary Garrison said, be no need for more American troops in Mexico but the tone of Huerta's protest against violation of the armistice, the arrival of a boat load of war munitions at Puerto Mexico and the reported killing of Private Parks, orderly for Lieut. Col. Taggart, who wandered from Vera Cruz into the Federal lines, while insane from the heat, have made it seem likely to Washington that the gravest eventuality is close at hand.

The army is greatly cheered by Secretary Garrison's strong stand against political or other interference with its war plans and the secretary himself seems pleased by the prospect of "doing something." Army and navy officers generally were displeased by the news that Huerta has been permitted to gather guns and bullets by the boat load for the "A. B. C." United States right under the muzzle of the guns of the Atlantic fleet.

The Kron Prinzessin Cecile was permitted to land her cargo of war munitions at Puerto Mexico, because to make an attempt to prevent her doing so would have been a "flagrant violation of the armistice."

Then Huerta, his war munitions landed and rushing to him, warned Washington that he might feel obliged to withdraw from the mediation proceedings. It was then that the secretary of war announced that he had hired transports to take troops to Vera Cruz. Another boat, the Bavaria, is approaching Puerto Mexico with another load of war munitions for Huerta. Army and navy officers here believe the Bavaria will not be permitted to unload.

Secretary Garrison, it became known today while differing with the rest of the president's cabinet over the Mexican situation, has been subjected to strong political pressure by persons of great influence who are anticipating war in Mexico and the formation of a large volunteer army. So far he has held out firmly, insisting that nothing will be done to interfere with the carefully prepared war plans of the army. He has been besieged with insistent requests that this or that officer be placed in a position to enjoy the best possible opportunity for advancement or preference.

But the secretary of war, who all along, it is said, has opposed Secretary of State Bryan's peace policy at cabinet meetings, refused to listen to anything which might operate against the efficiency of the army. Gen. W. W. Waterspoon, chief of staff, and the rest of the general staff have been assured by him that war plans they have been drawing up for use in Mexico will not be interfered with in the event of war.

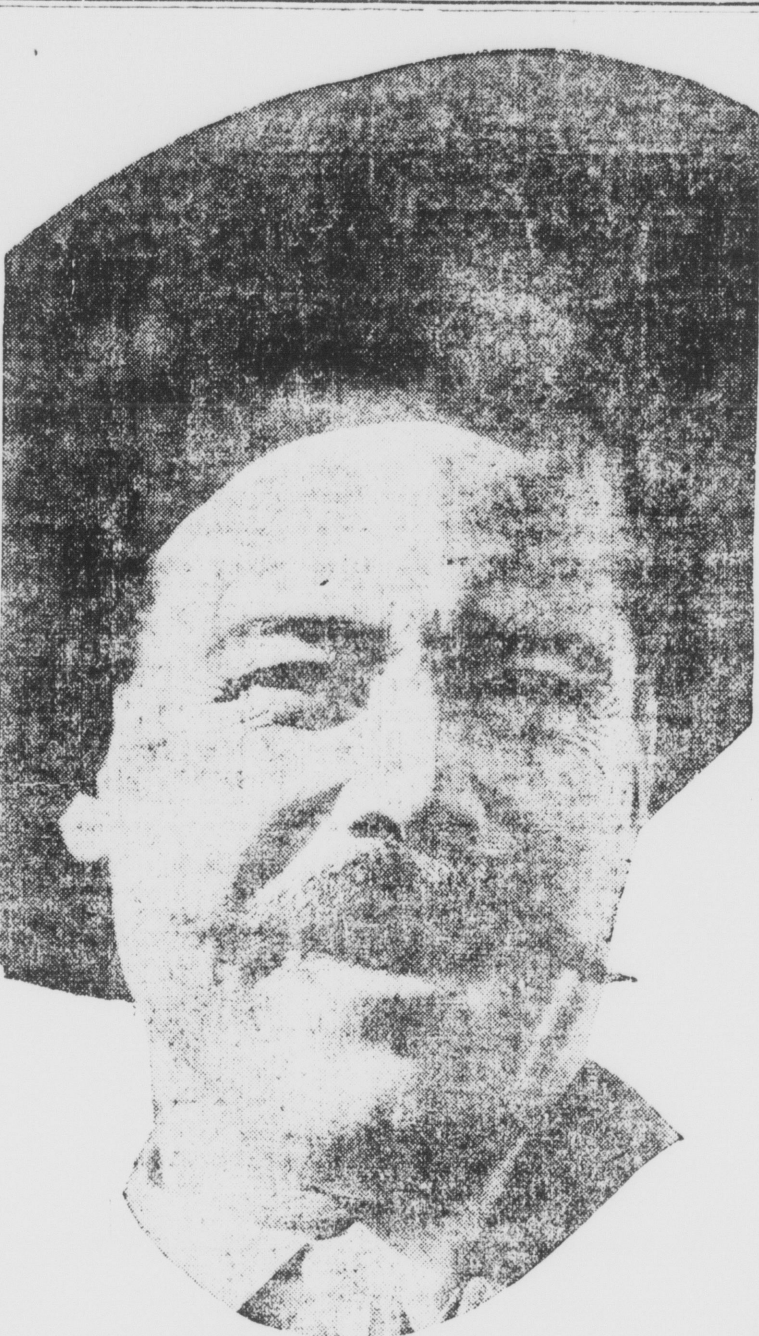

Notwithstanding hostile preparations on the part of both this government and Huerta, the mediators professed to be cheered by the Mexican dictator's announcement that his delegates at the peace conference will start for Niagara Falls Tuesday to prepare for the mediation sessions to be begun on May 18. They went ahead today with their plans.

Clean Up Day Activities.

Today is Clean Up Day and signs of activity are visible all over the city of the work of cleaning up the back yards of the refuse that has accumulated during the past winter. It was expected that every householder in the city would unite in cleaning up the city. Next week the board of health will make a tour of the city to see what back yards were not cleaned up and the occupants will be asked to get busy. The work of keeping the city clean should not be stopped with the work today but every effort should be made this summer to prevent accumulations of ashes, debris and refuse of any description collecting in the back yards and waste places of the city.

Moving Pictures Sunday Evening.

The moving pictures, "The Life of Christ," which have been shown at Kingston Opera House the past week, will be again seen at St. Mary's school hall on Broadway on Sunday evening. This will give people residing in the lower portion of the city a chance to view these great films. They depict the life of the Savior from His birth to death and are very realistic.

THE MAN OF THE HOUR IN MEXICO.

General Pancho Villa, the fighting leader of the rebel forces, who now have absolute control of northern Mexico and who are rapidly advancing on Huerta's tottering stronghold, Mexico City.

MEXICANS PREPARE TO RESIST ARMY

FRANCHISE VALUES IN THIS CITY

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Vera Cruz, May 9.—General Navarette, Federal army, is now at Jalisco, and many guns at Cerro Gordo to resist any American advance on Mexico City.

Artillery has been brought from the capital for the Cerro Gordo fortifications and fifteen large guns that arrived here from France three weeks before the American forces landed, have also been taken there.

If the American troops are ordered to march on the capital Cerro Gordo is expected to be the place where the Mexicans will make their main stand. They are boasting that the result of the battle which General Scott fought there in his Mexican campaign will be reversed.

While Navarette is preparing to battle with the Americans his own troops are causing him trouble, however. Juan Bailett, a resident of Vera Cruz, who has just returned here after making a trip beyond the gap in the railroad, said today that the forces under Col. Equila Lis are threatening to mutiny. Many have already deserted. These soldiers have not been paid for many months and they lack food supplies.

The soldiers of General Davila, just beyond Tejar, are also complaining, with General Maas for the fact that they have neither food nor money.

The Colonial Minstrels.

The biggest indoor event of the season will without doubt be the coming production of the Colonial Minstrels, under the direction of Bert W. Lowe, for the benefit of the Federation of Women's Clubs. This will be an unusual show, as tons of special scenery and electrical effects have been constructed for some of the big scenes, some of which will tax the stage of the Kingston Opera House. Everything will be new and novel and none of the old conventional minstrel material will be seen. The opening is an original first part setting, portraying an elaborate cafe with the chorus seated at tables, doing away with the old time circle. All of the numbers in the first part are worked as a cabaret show and here will be seen some of the finest singing and dancing numbers ever staged. Ten of the greatest comedians and forty of the finest singers, together with an orchestra of twenty-two pieces, will help to make life worth living during the enactment of the biggest minstrel show ever seen in Kingston. The Colonial Minstrels will depict "minstrelsy as it will be" and not as it has been.

EARTHQUAKE IN EASTERN SICILY

Large Number Killed or Injured and Great Destruction of Property—Mount Etna Volcano is Active.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Naples, Italy, May 9.—A series of violent earthquake shocks in Eastern Sicily have killed many persons and destroyed or wrecked a number of villages.

The disturbances which began last night about 10 o'clock, continued today. The volcano, Mount Etna, is becoming active and there are fears of an overwhelming eruption.

Communication was interrupted by the quake and it was not until today that the full seriousness of the disaster was learned. The property damage is vast, running into millions.

There were three heavy shocks, followed by intermittent undulations. The greatest force was spent near the villages of Acireale, Lincera and Mangano.

Lincera was destroyed and many persons there were caught beneath falling debris and killed or injured. The state railway of Sicily was wrecked near Acireale, part of the wreckage being hurled 700 feet into the air by the terrific force of the quake. Trains were derailed and heavy freight cars were lifted upward as though by a terrific explosion.

As soon as the government learned of the extent of the disaster, special trains were rushed into the stricken zone from Palermo, Syracuse and other cities, bearing physicians, medical supplies and soldiers, who will conduct the relief work.

A dispatch from Catania says that the people of that city were panic stricken by the earth tremors and many of them rushed from their homes and spent the night in the fields or upon their knees in the cathedrals.

The shocks were also felt at Messina, where memories of the destruction of that city in 1908 still linger vividly.

A dispatch from Messina said that forty persons had been killed and forty injured at Lincera. Another message said that thirty had been killed and 120 injured at Acireale. At Mangano a passenger train was derailed and many persons were hurt.

Within two hours after the first shock masses gathered at the crater of Mount Etna and the rumbling in the interior of the volcano increased. At dawn today great clouds of black smoke could be seen rolling over the city of Catania and into the sky. Many persons in hamlets upon the side of the mountain left their homes in fright.

The district hit by the earthquake shocks is thickly populated. Acireale has a population of 27,000. Catania province, in which the main force of the tremors centered, has suffered more from earthquake than probably any other region on the globe.

Messages received this afternoon indicated that the death list would be bigger than previously expected. The village of Confemmi was completely destroyed. Soldiers at Lincera reported finding 50 bodies. The villages of Passapomo, Ilongardo and Maletti were partly wiped out with a death toll estimated at from 20 to 30.

McCabe Signs Ramos.

Bill McCabe, manager of the Toughkeeps team, has signed Ramos, one of the Cuban pitchers, with Long Branch last season. Ramos is also a good fielder and ranked next to Quinn as the best first baseman in the league last season.

Charter Revision Discussed.

A regular meeting of the Municipal League was held on Friday evening at the Kingston City Library. The only business taken up was a discussion of Mayor Canfield's proposed charter revision.

Dr. Vrooman's New Office.

Dr. A. S. Vrooman has removed his office from his residence on Fair street to 414 Main street. He will retain his residence at 131 Fair street.

ARMY READY TO INVADE MEXICO

Mediation Plans Likely to be Disrupted at any Moment—More War Supplies Arrive for Huerta.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, May 9.—The army is on the mark ready for the signal to proceed to Vera Cruz. Mediation is in imminent peril of being flung to the winds and the national capital is prepared for the news that the long expected order "On to Mexico City" has been issued.

While no orders for the embarkation of troops followed the announcement that the war department had arranged to charter six large steamships to be used in transporting the balance of the second army to Vera Cruz, Secretary Garrison assured the general staff today that if it became necessary to throw additional forces into Mexico the plans formed by the war college would not be disturbed.

Mediation is almost forgotten in official circles and attention is concentrated on the war department in the expectancy of orders pressing hostilities in Mexico. Constitutionalist and Huertistas so far as their relations with the "A. B. C." envoys were about forgotten in the anticipation of a decisive move which will put an end to mediation at once.

They may as Secretary Garrison said, be no need for more American troops in Mexico but the tone of Huerta's protest against violation of the armistice, the arrival of a boat load of war munitions at Puerto Mexico and the reported killing of Lieut. Col. Taggart, who wandered from Vera Cruz into the Federal lines, while insuring from the heat have made it seem likely to Washington that the gravest eventuality is close at hand.

The army is greatly cheered by Secretary Garrison's strong stand against political or other interference with its war plans and the secretary himself seems pleased by the prospect of "doing something."

Army and navy officers generally were displeased by the news that Huerta has been permitted to gather guns and bullets by the boat load for the Atlantic fleet.

The Kron Prinzessin Cecilie was permitted to land her cargo of war munitions at Puerto Mexico, the state department contended, because for Huerta's army.

It was not until the day after yesterday that the news of the landing of the Kron Prinzessin landed and rushing to him, warned Washington that he might feel obliged to withdraw from the mediation proceedings. It was then that the secretary of war announced that he had hired transports to take troops to Vera Cruz. Another boat, the Bavaria, is approaching Puerto Mexico with another load of war munitions for Huerta's army.

For Huerta's army and navy officers here believe the Bavaria will not be permitted to unload.

Secretary Garrison, it became known today while differing with the rest of the president's cabinet over the Mexican situation, has been subjected to strong political pressure by persons of great influence who are anticipating war in Mexico and the formation of a large volunteer army. So far he has held out firmly, insisting that nothing will be done to interfere with the carefully prepared war plans of the army. He has been besieged with insistent requests that this or that officer be placed in a position to enjoy the best possible opportunity for advancement or preference.

But the secretary of war, who all along, it is said, has opposed Secretary of State Bryan's peace policy at cabinet meetings, has refused to listen to anything which might operate against the efficiency of the army. Gen. W. W. Waterspoon, chief of staff, and the rest of the general staff have been assured by him that war plans they have been drawing up for use in Mexico will not be interfered with in the event of war.

Notwithstanding hostile preparations on the part of both this government and Huerta, mediators proposed to be cheered by the Mexican dictator's announcement that his delegates at the peace conference will start for Niagara Falls Tuesday to prepare for the mediation sessions to be begun on May 18. They went ahead today with their plans.

Clean Up Day Activities.

Today is Clean Up Day and signs of activity are visible all over the city of the work of cleaning up the back yards of the refuse that has accumulated during the past winter. It was expected that every household in the city would unite in cleaning up the city. Next week the board of health will make a tour of the city to see what back yards were not cleaned up and the occupants will be asked to get busy. The work of keeping the city clean should not be stopped with the work today but every effort should be made this summer to prevent accumulations of ashes, debris and refuse of any description collecting in the back yards and waste places of the city.

Moving Pictures Sunday Evening.

The moving pictures, "The Life of Christ," which have been shown at Kingston Opera House the past week, will be again seen at St. Mary's school hall on Broadway on Sunday evening. This will give people residing in the lower portion of the city a chance to view these great films. They depict the life of the Savior from His birth to death and are very realistic.

THE MAN OF THE HOUR IN MEXICO.

General Pancho Villa, the fighting leader of the rebel forces, who now have absolute control of northern Mexico and who are rapidly advancing on Huerta's tatterd strongholds, Mexico City.

MEXICANS PREPARE TO RESIST ARMY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Vera Cruz, May 9.—General Navarrete, Federal commander here, today ordered many guns at Cerro Gordo to resist any American advance on Mexico City.

Artillery has been brought from the capital for the Cerro Gordo fortifications and fifteen large guns that arrived here from France three weeks before the American forces landed, have also been taken there.

If the American troops are ordered to march on the capital Cerro Gordo is expected to be the place where the Mexicans will make their main stand. They are boasting that the result of the battle which General Scott fought there in his Mexican campaign will be reversed.

While Navarrete is preparing to battle with the Americans his own troops are causing him trouble, however.

Juan Bailliet, a resident of Vera Cruz, who has just returned here after making a trip beyond the capital, said today that the forces under Col. Equila, 15, are threatening to mutiny. Many have already deserted. These soldiers have not been paid for many months and they lack food supplies.

The soldiers of General Davila, just beyond Tejar, are also complaining, with General Mas for the fact that they have neither food nor money.

The Colonial Minstrels.

The biggest indoor event of the season will without doubt be the coming production of the Colonial Minstrels, under the direction of Bert W. Lowe, for the benefit of the Federation of Women's Clubs. This will be an unusual show, as tons of special scenery and electrical effects have been constructed for some of the big scenes, some of which will tax the stage of the Kingston Opera House. Everything will be new and novel and none of the old conventional minstrel material will be seen. The opening is an original first part setting, portraying an elaborate cafe with the chorus seated at tables, doing away with the old time first part. All of the numbers in the first part are worked as a cabaret show and here will be seen some of the finest singing and dancing numbers ever staged. Ten of the greatest comedians and forty of the finest singers, together with an orchestra of twenty-two pieces, will help to make life worth living during the engagement of the big minstrel show ever seen in Kingston. The Colonial Minstrels will depict "minstrelsy as it will be" and not as it has been.

HUERTA THREATENS TO WRECK CAPITAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Vera Cruz, May 9.—President Huerta has mined the streets of his capital. If he is overthrown he plans to wreck the city, making the world gasp at the catastrophe that marks his downfall.

This is the amazing story brought here by Oscar Brain, a prominent mining man of Oaxaca.

"Huerta has reason to prepare for the end," said Mr. Brain today. "Zapata and Salcedo have 40,000 men massed south of the capital. Figueroa holds the district west of the city with 6,000 men. The Americans are on the east and coming down from the north are Villa's triumphant soldiers."

"Huerta has stopped drinking in the afternoon, but he must be crazy," is heard on every side in Mexico City. He has had all the dynamite from the Pachuca mines brought to the capital. This was paraded through the principal streets in twenty wagons and then distributed to the police headquarters between the National Palace and the Ciudadela.

"He has trenches dug in the streets and these have been mined with sixty tons of plant powder."

"Meanwhile he is fortifying and provisioning the National Palace and the Citadel and also planting heavy artillery at Guadalupe. In one of these strongholds he will make his last stand. If overcome, he says, the whole world will gasp at the extent of the catastrophe."

Many other refugees confirm Brain's statements that Huerta's end is near at hand and that he is being confronted by these alternatives:

Fleeing to the Americans, who are the only ones who will spare his life, or dying in the ruins of his capital or at the hands of a rebel firing squad. Most of the refugees here believe that Huerta's fate will be determined within a week.

EARTHQUAKE IN EASTERN SICILY

Large Number Killed or Injured and Great Destruction of Property—Mount Etna Volcano is Active.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Naples, Italy, May 9.—A series of violent earthquake shocks in Eastern Sicily have killed many persons and destroyed or wrecked a number of villages.

The disturbances which began last night about 10 o'clock, continued today. The volcano, Mount Etna, is becoming active and there are fears of an overwhelming eruption.

Communication was interrupted by the quake and it was not until today that the full seriousness of the disaster was learned. The property damage is vast, running into millions.

There were three heavy shocks, followed by intermittent undulations. The greatest force was spent near the villages of Aci Real, Lenera and Mangano.

Lenera was destroyed and many persons there were caught beneath falling debris and killed or injured.

The state railway of Sicily was wrecked near Aci Real, part of the wreckage being hurled 700 feet into the air by the terrific force of the quake. Trains were derailed and heavy freight cars were lifted upward as though by a terrific explosion.

As soon as the government learned of the extent of the disaster, special trains were rushed into the stricken zone from Palermo, Syracuse and other cities, bearing physicians, medical supplies and soldiers, who will conduct the relief work.

A dispatch from Catania says that the people of that city were naive struck by the earth tremors and many of them rushed from their homes and spent the night in the fields or upon their knees in the cathedrals.

The shocks were also felt at Messina, where memories of the destruction of that city in 1908 still linger vividly.

A dispatch from Messina said that forty persons had been killed and forty injured at Lenera. Another message said that thirty had been killed and 120 injured at Aci Real. At Mangano a passenger train was derailed and many persons were hurt.

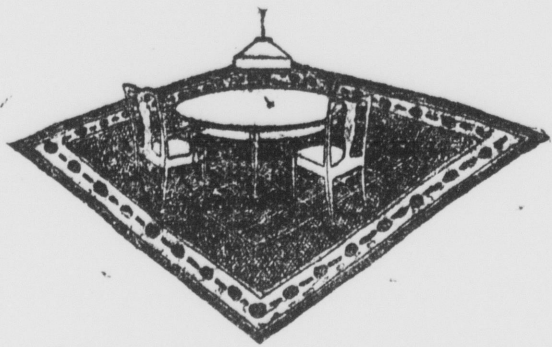

Within two hours after the first shock flames gathered at the crater of Mount Etna and the rumbling in the interior of the volcano increased.

At dawn today great clouds of black smoke could be

MOBACUS HEIGHTS.

Mombacuss Heights, May 9.—Harry Smith took an auto party from Wawarsing to the great dam at Shokan Sunday.

A number of people were out taking advantage of the fine weather on Sunday, driving and calling.

Mrs. Leonard Van Etten, Mrs. Harry Smith and daughter, the Misses Rae and Bessie Churchwell, Ralph Markle and Charles Bell were visitors at Jesse McDonald's on Sunday.

Henry Osterhoudt and family visited Mrs. Harriett Morehouse.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Van Etten spent Sunday with George Halwick and Mrs. F. J. Smith were out driving and calling Sunday afternoon.

Henry Duyme of High Falls spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Quick.

Ralph Smith and family were out for an auto ride Sunday afternoon.

Leslie Morehouse and family of Kerhonkson spent Saturday night and Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Baker.

Mrs. Harry Smith and daughter, Margaret, spent a few days last week with her sister-in-law, Mrs. Ralph Smith, at Mombacuss.

Leroy Thomas has been helping Solomon Uffra for a few days before leaving for Delaware county, where he will have employment at carpenter work for some time.

J. H. Kelder of Samsonville drove through this place Sunday.

Ralph Smith has employment with his father-in-law at Ellenville, making the trip morning and evening by auto.

The young people are planning a tramp across the mountain to the camp at Brownville some time in the near future.

The boys who went fishing Saturday were more successful than on their former trip.

Some of the young folks attended the prayer meeting at Mombacuss.

Go to Church Sunday.

On Sunday, May 10, which is also Mothers' Day, will be "go to church Sunday" at the First Presbyterian. The idea is to have every member of the church out to service on this day. In order that each may look into the face of every other fellow member and get acquainted. If this idea is successful, judging from the almost overtaxed seating capacity of last Sunday it is going to be necessary to place chairs in the aisle to accommodate the congregation. This church has taken a sudden spurt in growth and bids fair to make the increasing of the size of the building necessary if the influx of new members and visitors continues.

MOBACUS HEIGHTS.

Mombaccus Heights, May 9.—Harry Smith took an auto party from Wawarsing to the great dam at Shokan Sunday.

A number of people were out taking advantage of the fine weather on Sunday, driving and calling.

Mrs. Leonard Van Etten, Mrs. Harry Smith and daughter, the Misses Rae and Bessie Churchwell, Ralph Markle and Charles Bell were visitors at Jesse McDonald's on Sunday.

Henry Osterhout and family visited Mrs. Harriett Morehouse.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Van Etten spent Sunday with George Halwick.

Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Smith were out driving and calling Sunday afternoon.

Henry Duyme of High Falls spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Quick.

Ralph Smith and family were out for an auto ride Sunday afternoon.

Leslie Morehouse and family of Kerhonkson spent Saturday night and Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Baker.

Mrs. Harry Smith and daughter, Margaret, spent a few days last week with her sister-in-law, Mrs. Ralph Smith, at Mombaccus.

Leroy Thomas has been helping Solomon Uthraff for a few days before leaving for Delaware county, where he will have employment at carpenter work for some time.

J. H. Kelder of Samsenville drove through this place Sunday.

Ralph Smith has employment with his father-in-law at Ellenville, making the trip morning and evening by auto.

The young people are planning a tramp across the mountain to the camp at Brownville some time in the near future.

The boys who went fishing Saturday were more successful than on their former trip.

Some of the young folks attended the prayer meeting at Mombaccus.

Go to Church Sunday.

On Sunday, May 10, which is also Mothers' Day, will be "go to church Sunday" at the First Presbyterian. The idea is to have every member of the church out to service on this day, in order that each may look into the face of every other fellow member and get acquainted. If this idea is successful, judging from the almost overtaxed seating capacity of last Sunday it is going to be necessary to place chairs in the aisle to accommodate the congregation. This church has taken a sudden spurt in growth and bids fair to make the increasing of the size of the building necessary if the influx of new members and visitors continues.

HOW HAMBURG IS KEPT CLEAN

Children in German City Show Deep Interest.

OHIO MAYOR IMPRESSED.

Most of City's Refuse Carted Away While Town Is Asleep—Specially Trained Men Look After Asphalt. Regular Force of Nearly a Thousand Cleaners.

With almost every city and town in the United States preparing for its spring cleaning, attention has been attracted to the methods of cleaning house adopted by the important cities of Europe.

In no European town perhaps are the methods more interesting than in the thriving German city of Hamburg, where carefully trained children help to keep the city beautiful. Writing from that place, United States Consul Robert P. Skinner says that the mayor of one of the large cities of Ohio who visited Hamburg was much impressed with the important part performed by the children in keeping the city clean. He departed from the city, Mr. Skinner says, convinced that the cleaning of streets and sidewalks in Germany is a much lighter task than in cities of the same size in the United States because of the orderly habits of the people themselves.

"Suction street sweeping devices," continues Mr. Skinner, "are practically unknown in Germany. Hamburg itself owns horse drawn sweepers only, although for about nine months two electric motor sweepers have been in use. These, however, do not yet belong to the city and are being employed experimentally. They have not given satisfaction and have been under repair more than three months. These motor driven sweepers fail to work well in this city because the pavements, as a rule, are not very smooth and the mechanism of the sweepers is deranged by the shaking it receives. Recently the front wheels of these sweepers have been provided with rubber tires, and they have worked more satisfactorily."

Cleans 1,290 Streets.

"The Hamburg street cleaning department cleans and when necessary sprinkles all city streets, makes repairs, maintains relief stations, removes dust, garbage and waste material generally from streets, houses, wharves, ships and markets and operates also a garbage burning plant. At present the department cleans 1,290 streets, with their adjacent sidewalks, having a length of 291.4 miles. The roadways cleaned cover fully 5,656,970 square yards and the sidewalks about 4,177,900 square yards. The work is carried on under the supervision of twelve superintending establishments. Thirty main thoroughfares are cleaned six times weekly at night by means of rotary brooms and all other streets with few exceptions, twice weekly. In the center of the city the streets are also cleaned six times weekly during the day and in other parts of the city four times weekly during the day."

"Asphalt street surfaces require more attention than others, as they become slippery and are looked after by specially trained men. They are swept and drenched with water and in hot weather are sprinkled with pebbles. On late complaints have been made by the owners of motorcars that these pebbles damage the tires of their vehicles, so that now this material is strewn only when strictly necessary. The pebbles used are mud free and from one-fifth to two-fifths inch in diameter. In 1910 865.85 cubic yards of these pebbles were utilized. The Hamburg street cleaning department owns 50 cleaning machines, 54 snowplows, 101 water wagons, 100 garbage carts for waste from private houses, 60 garbage carts for waste from ships, quays, etc., 850 snow wheelbarrows and 321 garbage wheelbarrows."

"Night work begins at midnight and ends when the streets are in order. Twelve squads work under the direction of twelve different posts. These posts are in charge of an inspector for day work and a subinspector for night work. The jurisdiction of each post is divided into ten subdivisions, so that in the event of emergency work can be taken up simultaneously at a moment's notice at 120 different points. First the broom machines, of which there are twenty-six, sweep the roadways, while the sidewalks are cleaned at the same time by special men. Another squad follows the sweepers to heap up the dirt swept to the roadside, and finally carts and garbage wagons follow. The night work never lasts more than eight hours. Householders are required to burn up all garbage possible and to store the rest in sheet iron cans with covers, which are deposited at the edge of the sidewalk twice a week, not before 9 p. m. The cans are emptied by the garbage gatherers and must be taken in from the sidewalk by the householders before 8 a. m."

Roadways Are Scoured.

"Day work begins at 6 a. m. and continues until 6 p. m., except with the men who work on the asphalt streets, who remain on duty until 7 p. m. A two hour intermission is allowed at noon. Recently ten small iron boxes and ten wire netting paper boxes have been placed on trial in different parts of the city to facilitate the work of the street cleaning department. If they answer the purpose satisfactorily a large number will be provided hereafter."

"On some streets it is also the practice, where there is a sufficient grade to enable the water to carry off the waste matter through the gutters, simply to scour the roadway with a strong stream of water."

"At the garbage burning plant of the city in 1910 the following quantities of material were burned: House garbage, 73,176 tons; wharf garbage, 4,216 tons; ship garbage, 3,360 tons; market waste, 680 tons; waste delivered by private persons and public institutions, 1,541 tons; total, 82,973 tons. From these quantities of waste matter the city obtained 44,987 tons of clinders and 675 tons of old metal, all of which had a substantial commercial value.

"The regular Hamburg street cleaning force consists of 800 to 900 men, but it is often necessary to increase the force to as many as 3,500 men with the utmost celerity. A situation of this kind is met in the following manner: Not later than the month of October the street cleaning department distributes to all laborers applying for them at the proper registry office cards stating where the applicants are to report for work in the event of a heavy snowfall. When the need presents itself men holding cards of this kind obtain employment first. They are paid as much as $2.50 per day, the standard rate being 2.4 cents per barrow load of snow removed. However, those who fill the barrows are paid at the rate of 8 cents per hour. Barrows are used if snow has to be transported not more than 820 feet. In other cases carts of 2.61 cubic yards capacity are employed."

DAUGHTER OF MUSIC CONDUCTOR TO BE BRIDE OF MORGAN'S SON.

(Miss Louise Converse.) Boston, May 9.—Formal announcement will soon be made of the engagement of Miss Louise Converse, daughter of Professor and Mrs. Frederick S. Converse, of this city, to Junius Morgan, son of J. Pierpont Morgan, the New York financier. Young Morgan is now a student at Harvard and he disclosed the secret at a recent dinner party in Cambridge. Miss Converse's father is conductor of the Boston Opera Company.

The jurisdiction of each post is divided into ten subdivisions, so that in the event of emergency work can be taken up simultaneously at a moment's notice at 120 different points. First the broom machines, of which there are twenty-six, sweep the roadways, while the sidewalks are cleaned at the same time by special men. Another squad follows the sweepers to heap up the dirt swept to the roadside, and finally carts and garbage wagons follow. The night work never lasts more than eight hours. Householders are required to burn up all garbage possible and to store the rest in sheet iron cans with covers, which are deposited at the edge of the sidewalk twice a week, not before 9 p. m. The cans are emptied by the garbage gatherers and must be taken in from the sidewalk by the householders before 8 a. m."

Roadways Are Scoured.

"Day work begins at 6 a. m. and continues until 6 p. m., except with the men who work on the asphalt streets, who remain on duty until 7 p. m. A two hour intermission is allowed at noon. Recently ten small iron boxes and ten wire netting paper boxes have been placed on trial in different parts of the city to facilitate the work of the street cleaning department. If they answer the purpose satisfactorily a large number will be provided hereafter."

"On some streets it is also the practice, where there is a sufficient grade to enable the water to carry off the waste matter through the gutters, simply to scour the roadway with a strong stream of water."

"At the garbage burning plant of the city in 1910 the following quantities of material were burned: House garbage, 73,176 tons; wharf garbage, 4,216 tons; ship garbage, 3,330 tons; market waste, 680 tons; waste delivered by private persons and public institutions, 1,541 tons; total, 82,953 tons. From these quantities of waste matter the city obtained 44,987 tons of clinders and 675 tons of old metal, all of which had a substantial commercial value.

"The regular Hamburg street cleaning force consists of 800 to 900 men, but it is often necessary to increase the force to as many as 3,500 men with the utmost celerity. A situation of this kind is met in the following manner: Not later than the month of October the street cleaning department distributes to all laborers applying for them at the proper registry office cards stating where the applicants are to report for work in the event of a heavy snowfall. When the need presents itself men holding cards of this kind obtain employment first. They are paid as much as $2.50 per day, the standard rate being 24 cents per hour, and load of snow removed. However, those who fill the barrows are paid at the rate of 8 cents per hour. Barrows are used if snow has to be transported not more than 820 feet. In other cases carts of 201 cubic yards capacity are employed."

(Miss Louise Converse.)
Boston, May 9.—Formal announcement will soon be made of the engagement of Miss Louise Converse, daughter of Professor and Mrs. Frederick S. Converse, of this city, to Julius Morgan, son of J. Pierpont Morgan, the New York financier. Young Morgan is now a student at Harvard and he disclosed the secret at a recent dinner party in Cambridge. Miss Converse's father is conductor of the Boston Opera Company.

Goodness Worth Searching For.

How much human goodness lies hidden and unsuspected in lives and conditions the most unpromising and uncongenial to its development! KINGSTON, N. Y., MAY 9, 1914.

A number of the local fruit dealers in the past few days have tried to form an organization to keep the fruit placed on the sidewalk in front of the stores covered, but some of the dealers have refused to agree to the proposition. It has been a common sight in summers past to walk by a fruit store and see fruit exposed for sale that was covered with the dust of the street and to see flies walking unconcernedly across luscious peaches and apples and other fruit that would shortly be sold to a customer. The local board of health should get busy and force those who have refused to keep fruit exposed for sale covered to do so. The action should be taken at once before the warm summer days are here with their dust and flies.

About the silliest charge we have heard in a long time is that originated by Governor Glynn and echoed by Tammany politicians. It is that the frauds proved in Murphy's district in making out returns of the vote on the question of holding a Constitutional Convention were matched by similar frauds up State. They ask how it can be possible that the reported majority of 25,000 for the Convention on the morning after election shrank to a thousand or so. The answer is very simple, and Governor Glynn, being a newspaper editor, knows it better than most people. The rural newspapers went to no expense to gather the returns as they do at general elections, and the returns published in the morning newspapers next day were merely guesses by reporters who knew nothing about it. The guess on Ulster county was a thousand out of the way. The typical New York City politician cannot get rid of the idea that fraud characterizes elections in the country, but Governor Glynn knows better.

It is fortunate, although probably inevitable, that reformers are so in-temperate—not in drinking, but in thinking and acting. Their tendency is to push everything to the extreme of absurdity. The condition of our factory laws supplies many illustrations. Aimed at real abuses in large cities, they are so drawn as to be unjust and oppressive to small manufacturers in the country. A bill was introduced in the Legislature this year requiring that all factory employees should be furnished with hot and cold water for washing their hands, which would entail in the aggregate vast expense without corresponding benefit. Thinking workingmen themselves object to such frills because they perceive that in the end the money spent must come out of their wages. The "Safety First" people are also going the limit. Miss Frances Perkins, the secretary of the main organization, appeared the other day before the State Factory Investigating Commission and urged that merchants be prohibited from advertising special sales, on the ground that crowds are liable to panic in case of fire or other alarm. Next we shall hear of a movement to prohibit attractive plays or the preaching of interesting sermons, for similar reasons. Any theory, carried out to its utmost logical conclusion, becomes a nuisance.

The fact has been disclosed that a number of Methodist churches in New Jersey are paying regular salaries to the wives of their pastors. It seems that the bishop's salary is raised by levying upon each church an amount determined by figuring a fixed percentage upon its pastor's salary, and this assessment can be dodged in part by paying some of the money raised to the pastor's wife. This looks a bit like sharp practice on the part of Christian gentlemen, but it can be pardoned if it leads to permanent good. Every pastor's wife, if she is worthy of the position, ought to have a salary. Usually she is a greater influence for good than is her husband. We sometimes hear of clergymen "going wrong," but who ever heard of a minister's wife who did not continue all her days as an inspiration to correct living? Aside from this, she ordinarily does about four times as much work as her husband. Clergymen always claim to be overworked and like to take long vacations, but as a matter of fact very few of them know what real, hard, grinding work is. Their wives, on the contrary, not only perform the domestic duties which fall on all women, but in addition have to bear the burden of most of the activities of the societies connected with the church.

A RESOURCEFUL CHURCH.

(By Our Woman Editor.)

Last May a mighty windstorm swept Deal's Island, Maryland, and during its force the Methodist Church in Wenona, which is part of the island, caught fire, and, despite the best efforts of bucket brigades and volunteer fire departments, it burned to the ground.

The pastor, having had some experience in trying to raise funds from the good church folk on that pretty little island, which is richer in natural beauty than in the wealth of its citizens, knew well that a plea for money to replace what the fire had destroyed would go the way of many another eloquent appeal in the past. Yet the Methodist Church must not stay swept off the face of the island and what could he do?

Calling a meeting of the congregation and earnestly asking for suggestions, the pastor paused for inspiration, for he felt that some plan must be devised to appeal to the public imagination, and the plan soon was forthcoming.

They may be living off on an island these folk in little Wenona, and they may not have the wealth of the world at their feet, but they are not resourceless, not slow at all; and when ravaging fire and wind do their worst, there's at least one among their numbers to come to the rescue.

And so it happened that when their pastor called for suggestions, some one arose with the bold assertion that the church would be rebuilt, that the bricks would be contributed by kindly, churchy souls, here, and everywhere, and would be sent, a brick at a time,—by the practical way of parcel post.

A brand-new, spick-and-span brick church to come through the mails, the donors paying the price! After a mild gasp of astonishment the idea pleasantly filtered through the congregation, and it "caught" speedily and surely as the fire.

The pastor, held back by no false notions of modesty, wrote to President Wilson and Representative David J. Lewis of Maryland, "the father of the parcel post" requesting the courtesy of bricks. But when the plan was unfolded to the post office department, the officials thought of the weight of the bricks, their growing numbers and of the rural carrier who takes the mail from Prince Ann to Wenona—a mere little distance of 25 miles—and they were not over-impressed with the idea of carrying a brick church through the mail. They proceeded to put certain restrictions upon the scheme, but Postmaster General Burleson, in the midst of his consternation, smilingly admitted that the plan was perfectly practicable.

So the scheme goes merrily on, and bricks, safely wrapped in brown manila paper, may be sent from friends and sympathizers for the mild little rate of 10 or 15 cents, according to the zone from which they are transported.

Someone has taken the pains to figure, approximately, at least, the number of bricks required to complete the structure, and the assurance is given that 100,000 will be needed; but they are expected to pour in, partly by reason of the very novelty of the scheme and partly through interest in the little church burned to the ground.

And quite likely they will, because the public imagination generally is aroused and perhaps the public heart stirred by the efforts of a little congregation to keep its home afloat, particularly when the efforts are strikingly out-of-the-way.

In passing, much is said and much is written about the failure of churches to keep in vital touch with the people. But whatever else may be said of the churches or the people, one believes it is as true today as ever it was that in the hearts of the great majority of men and women there is an insistent reaching out for something to which to pin their religious faith. In these later days, however, there is a growing feeling that the church has a big human mission to perform, a mission which brings it close to humanity's throbs. And when it is found true that this mission and inspiring its members to follow its lead, just as individuals, in their homes, their shops, their everyday and their business lives, a questioning public grows deeply impressed.

For it wants to be impressed and wants to believe that the church has a right to go on existing, a right born of its every-day service and its readiness to respond to every-day calls; and, more than that, its influence in helping its members, from the greatest to the least, to respond.

Perhaps such comment is rather beside the mark of the Wenona disaster and its hopes for a fine new church-home for its Methodist residents, but it is inspired by the frequent assertions that church memberships are falling away. If, possibly, it is true that the church is failing to be true to the best of its mission and that its members are gradually decreasing in numbers, then something strong and useful must arise from its ruins, for the world wants and has need of the help that the church can give.

Frank B. Kellogg, president of the American Bar Association, tells the story of a forlorn man who was brought before a western magistrate, charged with drunkenness and disorderly conduct. When asked what he had to say for himself he gazed pensively at the judge and launched forth:

"A cat sits on my back fence every night and he yowls and yowls and yowls," complained a young lawyer's client. "Now, I don't want to have any trouble with neighbor Smith, but this thing has gone far enough, and I want you to tell me what to do."

The lawyer looked as solemn as an owl, and said not a word.

"I have a right to shoot the cat, haven't I?"

"I would hardly say that," replied the young lawyer. "The cat does not belong to you as I understand it."

"No, but the fence does."

"Then," concluded the light of the law, "I think it were to say you have a perfect right to tear down the fence."—Everybody's Magazine.

Gone to the Bad.

When Representative Victor Murdock of Kansas was a young lad he entered as a student at an academy known as the Lewis School in that state. He was one of the promising pupils and did well in his studies. But one of his classmates—Jones might have been his name—was the "bad boy" of the place and to every bit of mischief that went on.

But years passed by. The boys who had met on the field for football and marbles had gone out into the world to meet their destiny. And Murdock had lost sight of Jones in the smoke which hung over his political contests. But Jones, though "gone," was not "forgotten." Murdock often wondered what had been the path in life of the reckless, foolhardy boy.

At last, one night, Murdock was called to a town in New Jersey to deliver a speech on some important issue and while there met an old friend of his boyhood days. They talked over old times and laughed about things over which they had once shed boyhood tears.

"It's strange how the old lads have turned out," sighed the friend in a reminiscent mood. "Those who were the worst and who were expected to go to the bad have become fine men, and many of those who were model boys have gone to the bad themselves."

"For instance?" queried Murdock, with interest in his voice.

"Well, there's Charley Jones and yourself for an instance," replied the old friend. "Charley was such a dare devil that every one believed he would land in this very town. While you, whom every one thought a prize pupil, are actually going to congress!"—Washington Star.

In All Kentucky.

A Massachusetts minister was making his first visit to Kentucky several years ago. He had to spend the night in a small mountain town where the feuds and moonshine stills abounded. Engaging in conversation with one of the natives, he said: "My friend, this is a very bibulous state I hear."

"Lord!" replied the man; "there hain't 25 Bibles in all Kentucky."—Argonaut.

Intricate Story.
"Before my marriage I told her all my past life. Don't you think I showed a wonderful courage?" "Yes, and a still more wonderful memory."

CHAUTAUQUA AND THE REASON WHY

The seven joyous days promised to Kingston by the Chautauqua Association of Pennsylvania begin on Monday and notwithstanding extensive advertising, many are still ignorant of the real purpose of the organization—the object of its coming, and the ultimate results of its work among us.

The name "Chautauqua" is used through the courtesy of the original organization, established years ago at Chautauqua Lake in our own state. It was borrowed because it was recognized as the synonym of that which was pure, moral, educational and uplifting. This Pennsylvania Chautauqua has no connection whatever with this original Chautauqua.

This organization emanated from a most extensive series, covering thousands of towns in the middle west, and the president of this Chautauqua was long associated with this Western Circuit. He conceived the idea of introducing Chautauqua circuits in the eastern states, and secured the financial support of a number of prominent men of Philadelphia and other cities, who placed a fund at his disposal, to make the experiment in our part of the country, with the understanding that should the plan succeed and Chautauqua eventually prove more than self-supporting, any surplus should be turned over to a treasurer, and used for the betterment of Chautauqua talent.

The Pennsylvania Chautauqua was therefore incorporated under the laws of Pennsylvania, as a non-profit-sharing organization, and for the present at least, the officers do not even draw salaries as such.

The object of the undertaking is to educate and uplift the majority of the people, living in towns and cities which are distant from any great metropolis, and whose opportunities to have good talent are rare and expensive; to take the best available talent, men and women who are well and favorably known in the great cities, and to give the people of these smaller communities, the opportunity of hearing them for the smallest possible sum.

The lectures are upon a great variety of subjects, all up-to-date and presented by specialists—all given with the idea of educating the public, as it were, on subjects of universal interest.

There is nothing narrow or partisan permitted on the Chautauqua platform, no preference in politics, and absolutely no sectarianism. Roosevelt says: "Chautauqua is the most American thing in America." The music is represented in all its phases by the most excellent talent, and every incidental feature is chosen with the intent, that while it entertains, or amuses, it shall still leave a lasting and worth-while impression, arouse some useful train of thought or convey some idea that has merit.

In going into a city, the representative of Chautauqua make a personal appeal to the best elements of the community, explain the idea, and solicit their co-operation in bringing something well worth while into their midst, and without the interest and generous efforts of these men, it would be impossible to give the town people the rare privilege which a Chautauqua week offers.

Twelve delightful entertainments—two each day—each consisting of music, a lecture, some incidental features, moving pictures—covers the course, with a free service on Sunday. The cost of season tickets, which are limited in number and never sold at the box office, is two dollars and these tickets may be transferred twelve times. They are simply punched at the door to admit the bearer.

Children's tickets are one dollar, each covering the twelve occasions and transferable also. Tickets are being disposed of rapidly and it is gratifying to know that our people are responding eagerly to an unusual opportunity for amusement, education and inspiration.

BROADHEAD.

Broadhead, May 9.—Mrs. James Mayes and family spent Monday with their aunt, Mrs. John Robbins, at High Point.

School meeting was held on Tuesday, May 5. Officers elected were: Trustee, William Jordan; clerk, L. T. Allen; collector, Wilson Hamilton.

A birthday surprise was given to William Votie May 1. All enjoyed a good time.

Miss Edith and Miss Theresa Garrison of Kingston are visiting their uncle William Votie, at Broadhead.

Walter Hamilton is laid up with a large boil on his hand.

Mr. and Mrs. John Robbins called on Mrs. James Mayes recently.

William Kelse and Fred Scheffel are doing the plumbing work in Julius Breachwald's large barn.

When finished it will be one of the largest and most up to date barns in the county.

Wayside Inn Operating Co.

Articles of incorporation of the Wayside Inn Operating Company, Inc. of Ellenville have been filed with the secretary of state at Albany and in the Ulster county clerk's office.

The company is organized to conduct a general hotel business and has a capital of $5,000 consisting of 50 shares of the par value of $100 each.

The directors are C. Clifford Ruff and A. Joseph Suchar, both of New York city, and William E. Woodman of Newark, N. J.

Great Game Expected Tomorrow.

The probabilities are that a vast crowd of fans will witness the Red Monograms and the Knight Athletic Club of Saugerties struggle for supremacy on McVey's field Sunday afternoon. That it will be no "swat-fest" is a foregone conclusion.

The Saugerties team is an exceptionally fast aggregation of players, and if the Monograms expect to win they will have to "be up and doing."

He conquers grief who can take a firm resolution.—Goethe.

VILLA TO ATTACK SALTILLO NEXT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Torreon, May 9.—Gen. Villa expects to hurl his forces against Saltillo early next week. He will leave for the front tomorrow and the attack on Saltillo will begin as soon as his artillery is in position to bombard the city.

"When we attack Saltillo," said Villa today, "we will have 20,000 men, and hope to make the victory so complete that the Huertistas will be absolutely annihilated. Beside my own personal brigade we will have the brigades of Generals MacLovich, Herrera, Luis Herrera, Manuel Chao, Tomas Urbina, Teribio Ornela, Eugenio Aguirre Benavides, Pablo Robles, Jose Rodriguez, Trinidad Rodriguez and Col. Miguel Gonzales.

"Our scouts tell me that the federals are throwing up strong fortifications and are prepared to put such defense at Saltillo as to make the battles of Torreon and San Pedro de las Colonias mere child's play in comparison. Our artillery under Gen. Felipe Angeles and Col. Santibenez will play an important part in the attack. It comprises 96 pieces, most of 85 millimetres calibre, and is well supplied with shrapnel. There are 43 machine guns on the way to Saltillo and they will be divided among the forces attacking the town in such proportions as their positions demand."

Gen. Carranza, accompanied by MacLovich Herrera and General Manuel Chao, arrived in Torreon last night and had a long conference with Villa and other officers.

The situation was gone over very thoroughly and the work done by Gen. Villa toward the investment of Saltillo was approved.

Hundreds of car loads of railway construction material have arrived in Torreon during the past week from Madera country via Chihuahua. This will be used for the reconstruction of the railroads on the way to Mexico City after the battle of Saltillo. The shipments include 1,500,000 railway ties, besides many car loads of bridge timber.

What Co-operation Means.

It means the pulling together of two or more interests for a common purpose.

When manufacturer and dealer pull together, the purpose is increased sales.

The great meeting-ground for this work is the advertising columns of local newspapers like The Freeman.

The advertising appeals directly to the buying public in the dealer's city and the name and the product of the manufacturer derive a great benefit through association with the dealer's prestige.

Co-operative advertising in the newspapers is growing more and more in favor because it pays.

Write to the Bureau of Advertising, American Newspaper Publishers Association, World Building, New York, for information about what other manufacturers are doing successfully along this line.

KINGSTON, N. Y., MAY 9, 1914.

A number of the local fruit dealers in the past few days have tried to form an organization to keep the fruit placed on the sidewalk in front of the stores covered, but some of the dealers have refused to agree to the proposition. It has been a common sight in summers past to walk by a fruit store and see fruit exposed for sale that was covered with the dust of the street and to see flies walking unconcernedly across luscious peaches and apples and other fruit that would shortly be sold to a customer. The local board of health should get busy and force those who have refused to keep fruit exposed for sale covered to do so. The action should be taken at once before the warm summer days are here with their dust and flies.

About the silliest charge we have heard in a long time is that originated by Governor Glynn and echoed by Tammany politicians. It is that the frauds proved in Murphy's district in making out returns of the vote on the question of holding a Constitutional Convention were matched by similar frauds up State. They ask how it can be possible that the reported majority of 25,000 for the Convention on the morning after election shrank to a thousand or so. The answer is very simple, and Governor Glynn, being a newspaper editor, knows it better than most people. The rural newspapers went to no expense to gather the returns as they do at general elections, and the returns published in the morning newspapers next day were merely guesses by reporters who knew nothing about it. The guess on Ulster county was a thousand out of the way. The typical New York City politician cannot get rid of the idea that fraud characterizes elections in the country, but Governor Glynn knows better.

It is fortunate, although probably inevitable, that reformers are so in-temperate—not in drinking, but in thinking and acting. Their tendency is to push everything to the extreme of absurdity. The condition of our factory laws supplies many illustrations. Aimed at real abuses in large cities, they are so drawn as to be unjust and oppressive to small manufacturers in the country. A bill was introduced in the Legislature this year requiring that all factory employees should be furnished with hot and cold water for washing their hands, which would entail in the aggregate vast expense without corresponding benefit. Thinking workingmen themselves object to such frills because they perceive that in the end the money spent must come out of their wages. The "Safety First" people are also going the limit. Miss Frances Perkins, the secretary of the main organization, appeared the other day before the State Factory Investigating Commission and urged that merchants be prohibited from advertising special sales, on the ground that crowds are liable to panic in case of fire or other alarm. Next we shall hear of a movement to prohibit attractive plays or the preaching of interesting sermons, for similar reasons. Any theory, carried out to its utmost logical conclusion, becomes a nuisance.

The fact has been disclosed that a number of Methodist churches in New Jersey are paying regular salaries to the wives of their pastors. It seems that the bishop's salary is raised by levying upon each church an amount determined by figuring a fixed percentage upon its pastor's salary, and this assessment can be dodged in part by paying some of the money raised to the pastor's wife. This looks a bit like sharp practice on the part of Christian gentlemen, but it can be pardoned if it leads to permanent good. Every pastor's wife, if she is worthy of the position, ought to have a salary. Usually she is a greater influence for good than is her husband. We sometimes hear of clergymen "going wrong," but who ever heard of a minister's wife who did not continue all her days as an inspiration to correct living? Aside from this, she ordinarily does about four times as much work as her husband. Clergymen always claim to be overworked and like to take long vacations, but as a matter of fact very few of them know what real, hard, grinding work is. Their wives, on the contrary, not only perform the domestic duties which fall on all women, but in addition have to bear the burden of most of the activities of the societies connected with the church.

A RESOURCEFUL CHURCH.

(By Our Woman Editor.)

Last May a mighty windstorm swept Deal's Island, Maryland, and during its force the Methodist Church in Wenona, which is part of the island, caught fire, and, despite the best efforts of bucket brigades and volunteer fire departments, it burned to the ground.

The pastor, having had some experience in trying to raise funds from the good church folk on that pretty little island, which is richer in natural beauty than in the wealth of its citizens, knew well that a plea for money to replace what the fire had destroyed would go the way of many another eloquent appeal in the past. Yet the Methodist Church must not stay swept off the face of the island and what could he do?

Calling a meeting of the congregation and earnestly asking for suggestions, the pastor paused for inspiration, for he felt that some plan must be devised to appeal to the public imagination, and the plan soon was forthcoming.

They may be living off an island these folk in little Wenona, and they may not have the wealth of the world at their feet, but they are not resourceless, not slow at all; and when ravaging fire and wind do their worst, there's at least one among their numbers to come to the rescue.

And so it happened that when their pastor called for suggestions, some one arose with the bold assertion that the church would be rebuilt, that the bricks would be contributed by kindly, churchly souls, here, and everywhere, and would be sent, a brick at a time,—by the practical way of parcel post.

A brand-new, spick-and-span brick church to come through the mails, the donors paying the price! After a mild gasp of astonishment the idea pleasantly filtered through the congregation, and it "caught" speedily and surely as the fire.

The pastor, held back by no false notions of modesty, wrote to President Wilson and Representative David J. Lewis of Maryland, "the father of the parcel post" requesting the courtesy of bricks. But when the plan was unfolded to the post office department, the officials thought of the weight of the bricks, their growing numbers and of the rural carrier who takes the mail from Prince Ann to Wenona—a mere little distance of 25 miles—and they were not over-impressed with the idea of carrying a brick church through the mail. They proceeded to put certain restrictions upon the scheme, but Postmaster General Burleson, in the midst of his consternation, smilingly admitted that the plan was perfectly practicable.

So the scheme goes merrily on, and bricks, safely wrapped in brown manila paper, may be sent from friends and sympathizers for the mild little rate of 10 or 15 cents, according to the zone from which they are transported.

Someone has taken the pains to figure, approximately, at least, the number of bricks required to complete the structure, and the assurance is given that 100,000 will be needed; but they are expected to pour in, partly by reason of the very novelty of the scheme and partly through interest in the little church burned to the ground.

And quite likely they will, because the public imagination generally is aroused and perhaps the public heart stirred by the efforts of a little congregation to keep its home afloat, particularly when the efforts are strikingly out-of-the-way.

In passing, much is said and much is written about the failure of churches to keep in vital touch with the people. But whatever else may be said of the churches or the people, one believes it is as true today as ever it was that in the hearts of the great majority of men and women there is an insistent reaching out for something to which to pin their religious faith. In these later days, however, there is a growing feeling that the church has a big human mission to perform, a mission which brings it close to humanity's throbs. And when it is found true to that mission and inspiring its members to follow its lead, just as individuals, in their homes, their shops, their every-day and their business lives, a questioning public grows deeply impressed.

For it wants to be impressed and wants to believe that the church has a right to go on existing, a right born of its every-day service and its readiness to respond to every-day call; and, more than that, its influence in helping its members, from the greatest to the least, to respond.

Perhaps such comment is rather beside the mark of the Wenona disaster and its hopes for a fine new church-home for its Methodist residents, but it is inspired by the frequent assertions that church memberships are falling away. If, possibly, it is true that the church is failing to be true to the best of its mission and that its members are gradually decreasing in numbers, then something strong and useful must arise from its ruins, for the world wants and has need of the help that the church can give.

Such is Fame.

Frank B. Kellogg, president of the American Bar Association, tells the story of a forlorn man who was brought before a western magistrate, charged with drunkenness and disorderly conduct. When asked what he had to say for himself he gazed pensively at the judge and launched forth:

"Your honor, man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn. I'm not so debased as Swift, as Voltaire, as Byron, as dispirited as Poe, or as debauched as—

"That will do," thundered the magistrate.

His Redress.

"A cat sits on my back fence every night and he yowls and yowls and yowls," complained a young lawyer's client. "Now, I don't want to have any trouble with neighbor Smith, but this thing has gone far enough, and I want you to tell me what to do."

The lawyer looked as solemn as an owl, and said not a word.

"I have a right to shoot the cat, haven't I?"

"I would hardly say that," replied the young lawyer. "The cat does not belong to you as I understand it."

"No, but the fence does."

"Then," concluded the light of the law, "I think it were to say you have a perfect right to tear down the fence."—Everybody's Magazine.

Gone to the Bad.

When Representative Victor Murdock of Kansas was a young lad he entered as a student at an academy known as the Lewis School in that state. He was one of the promising pupils and did well in his studies. But one of his classmates—Jones might have been his name—was the "bad boy" of the place and up to every bit of mischief that went on.

But years passed by. The boys who had met on the field for football and marbles had gone out into the world to meet their destiny. And Murdock had lost sight of Jones in the smoke which hung over his political contests. But Jones, though "gone," was not "forgotten." Murdock often wondered what had been the path in life of the reckless, fool-hardy boy.

At last, one night, Murdock was called to a town in New Jersey to deliver a speech on some important issue and while there met an old friend of his boyhood days. They talked over old times and laughed about things over which they had once shed boyhood tears.

"It's strange how the old lads have turned out," sighed the friend. In a reminiscent mood. "Those who were the worst and who were expected to go to the bad have become fine men, and many of those who were model boys have gone to the bad themselves."

"For instance?" queried Murdock, with interest in his voice.

"Well, there's Charley Jones and yourself for an instance," replied the old friend. "Charley was such a dare devil that every one believed he would land in the pen—he is now a minister here in this very town. While you, whom every one thought a prize pupil, are actually going to congress!"—Washington Star.

In All Kentucky.

A Massachusetts minister was making his first visit to Kentucky several years ago. He had to spend the night in a small mountain town where the feuds and moonshine stills abounded. Engaging in conversation with one of the natives, he said: "My friend, this is a very bibulous state I hear."

"Lord!" replied the man; "there hain't 25 Bibles in all Kentucky."—Argonaut.

Intricate Story.

"Before my marriage I told her all my past life. Don't you think I showed a wonderful courage?" "Yes, and a still more wonderful memory."

CHAUTAUQUA AND THE REASON WHY

The seven joyous days promised to Kingston by the Chautauqua Association of Pennsylvania begin on Monday and notwithstanding extensive advertising, many are still ignorant of the real purpose of the organization—the object of its coming, and the ultimate results of its work among us.

The name "Chautauqua" is used through the courtesy of the original organization, established years ago at Chautauqua Lake in our own state. It was borrowed because it was recognized as the synonym of that which was good, moral, educational and uplifting. The Pennsylvania Chautauqua has no connection whatever with this original Chautauqua.

This organization emanated from a most extensive series, covering thousands of towns in the middle west, and the president of this Chautauqua was long associated with this Western Circuit. He conceived the idea of introducing Chautauqua circuits in the eastern states, and secured the financial support of a number of prominent men of Philadelphia and other cities, who placed a fund at his disposal, to make the experiment in our part of the country, with the understanding that should the plan succeed and Chautauqua eventually prove more than self-supporting, any surplus should be turned over to a treasurer, and used for the betterment of Chautauqua talent.

The Pennsylvania Chautauqua was therefore incorporated under the laws of Pennsylvania, as a non-profit-making organization, and for the present at least, the officers do not even draw salaries as such.

The object of the undertaking is to educate and uplift the majority of the people, living in towns and cities which are distant from any great metropolis, and whose opportunities to have good talent are rare and expensive; to take the best available talent, men and women who are well and favorably known in the great cities, and to give the people of these smaller communities, the opportunity of hearing them for the smallest possible sum.

The lectures are upon a great variety of subjects, all up-to-date and presented by specialists—all given with the idea of educating the public, as it were, on subjects of universal interest.

There is nothing narrow or partisan permitted on the Chautauqua platform—no preference in politics, and absolutely no sectarianism. Roosevelt says: "Chautauqua is the most American thing in America." The music is represented in all its phases by the most excellent talent, and every incidental feature is chosen with the intent, that while it entertains, or amuses, it shall still leave a lasting and worth-while impression, arouse some useful train of thought or convey some idea that has merit.

In going into a city, the representatives of Chautauqua make a personal appeal to the best elements of the community, explain the idea, and solicit their cooperation in bringing something well worth while into their midst, and without the interest and generous efforts of these men, it would be impossible to give the town people the rare privilege which a Chautauqua week offers.

Twelve delightful entertainments—two each day—each consisting of music, a lecture, some incidental features, moving pictures—covers the course, with a free service on Sunday. The cost of season tickets, which are limited in number and never sold at the box office, is two dollars and these tickets may be transformed twelve times. They are simply punched at the door to admit the bearer.

Children's tickets are one dollar, each covering the twelve occasions and transferable also. Tickets are being disposed of rapidly and it is gratifying to know that our people are responding eagerly to an unusual opportunity for amusement, education and inspiration.

BROADHEAD.

Broadhead, May 9.—Mrs. James Mayes and family spent Monday with their aunt, Mrs. John Robbins, at High Point.

School meeting was held on Tuesday, May 5. Officers elected were: Trustee, William Jordan; clerk, L. T. Allen; collector, Wilson Hamilton.

A birthday surprise was given to William Votie May 1. All enjoyed a good time.

Miss Edith and Miss Theresa Garrison of Kingston are visiting their uncle William Votie, at Broadhead.

Walter Hamilton is laid up with a large boil on his hand.

Mr. and Mrs. John Robbins called on Mrs. James Mayes recently.

William Kelse and Fred Scheffel are doing the plumbing work in Julius Breachwald's large barn. When finished it will be one of the largest and most up to date barns in the county.

Wayside Inn Operating Co. Articles of Incorporation of the Wayside Inn Operating Company, Inc. of Ellenville have been filed with the secretary of state at Albany and in the Ulster county clerk's office. The company is organized to conduct a general hotel business and has a capital of $5,000, consisting of 50 shares of the par value of $100 each. The directors are C. Clifford Ruff and A. Joseph Suchar, both of New York city, and William E. Woodman of Newark, N. J.

Great Game Expected Tomorrow.

The probabilities are that a vast crowd of fans will witness the Red Monograms and the Knight Athletic Club of Saugerties struggle for supremacy on McVey's field Sunday afternoon. That it will be no "saw-fee" is a foregone conclusion. The Saugerties team is an exceptionally fast aggregation of players, and if the Monograms expect to win they will have to "be up and doing."

He conquers grief who can take a firm resolution.—Goethe.

VILLA TO ATTACK SALTILLO NEXT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Torreon, May 9.—Gen. Villa expects to hurl his forces against Saltillo early next week. He will leave for the front tomorrow and the attack on Saltillo will begin as soon as his artillery is in position to bombard the city.

"When we attack Saltillo," said Villa today, "we will have 20,000 men, and hope to make the victory so complete that the Huertistas will be absolutely annihilated. Beside my own personal brigade we will have the brigades of Generals Maclovio Herrera, Luis Huertara, Manuel Chao, Tomas Urbina, Teribio Ornela, Eugenio Aguirre Benavides, Pablo Robles, Jose Rodriguez, Trinidad Rodriguez and Col. Miguel Gonzales.

"Our scouts tell me that the federals are throwing up strong fortifications and are prepared to put such defense at Saltillo as to make the battles of Torreon and San Pedro de las Colonias mere child's play in comparison. Our artillery under Gen. Felipe Angeles and Col. Santibenez will play an important part in the attack. It comprises 96 pieces, most of 85 millimetres calibre, and is well supplied with shrapnel. There are 43 machine guns on the way to Saltillo and they will be divided among the forces attacking the town in such proportions as their positions demand."

Gen. Carranza, accompanied by Maclovio Herrera and General Manuel Chao, arrived in Torreon last night and had a long conference with Villa and other officers.

The situation was gone over very thoroughly and the work done by Gen. Villa toward the investment of Saltillo was approved.

Hundreds of car loads of railway construction material have arrived in Torreon during the past week from Madera country via Chihuahua. This will be used for the reconstruction of the railroads on the way to Mexico City after the battle of Saltillo. The shipments include 500,000 railway ties, besides many car loads of bridge timber.

What Co-operation Means.

It means the pulling together of two or more interests for a common purpose.

When manufacturer and dealer pull together, the purpose is increased sales.

The great meeting-ground for this work is the advertising columns of local newspapers like The Freeman.

The advertising appeals directly to the buying public in the dealer's city and the name and the product of the manufacturer derive a great benefit through association with the dealer's prestige.

Co-operative advertising in the newspapers is growing more and more in favor because it pays.

Write to the Bureau of Advertising, American Newspaper Publishers Association, World Building, New York, for information about what other manufacturers are doing successfully along this line.

BECKER CASE JURY COMPLETED

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, May 9.—The prosecution in the trial of ex-Police Lieutenant Charles Becker for the murder of Herman Rosenthal, is keeping its most important witnesses in hiding and they will be brought to New York only on the day they are to testify.

This plan is being followed by District Attorney Charles S. Whitman to prevent detectives and agents hired by the defense from spying on the state's witnesses. It was learned today that several of these witnesses will spring sensations by giving wholly new testimony which the prosecution expects will throw the lines of the defense into disorder.

Though the jury will decide Becker's fate was completed late yesterday, 20 men remaining on the panel of talesmen were ordered to appear today. This caused rumors about Justice Seabury's court that there would be changes in the jury and that one or more jurors would be dropped.

ESOPUS.

THE CHAUTAUQUA IN KINGSTON

COMMENCES NEXT WEDNESDAY

Leading Merchants Will Co-operate by Offering FREE EXCURSIONS to the City for THREE DAYS

Pleasure and Profit for All! --- Be Sure to Come!

For the first time in history the privilege is afforded the public of this vicinity to enjoy the pleasures and advantages of the famous Chautauqua with its array of prominent speakers, lecturers and entertainers.

The Chautauqua program will be rendered twice every day--afternoon and evening, (with a change of program each day) in the large Armory of Company "M," on Broadway, and will include Victor's Famous Band, a High-class Opera Company, Tuskegee Institute Jubilee Singers, a noted violinist--together with a large array of noted speakers, lecturers and entertainers.

Tickets are on sale at popular prices and may be secured for the entire course, or for any performance. Chautauqua is worth going miles to visit and attend.

The merchants of the city have decided to co-operate in inviting you to Kingston, and for the first three days of Chautauqua are going to pay the Railroad or Boat Fares of those who come from a distance to visit the city.

In addition to this Fare Refund, every store co-operating has arranged to offer Special Bargains in all departments, throughout the entire Chautauqua Week.

There will be PLEASURE and PROFIT provided for all persons who take advantage of the combined attractions afforded during this gala week.

The opportunity is really too good to miss. Combine a joyous Spring outing with a profitable shopping trip, and bring your friends with you--the more the merrier.

Read carefully the details as plainly outlined below--then arrange to COME!

AT ONCEMATTERS BEFORE THE SURROGATE

The will of Frank L. Gordon, of the town of Marletown, has been filed with Surrogate Gill in the surrogate's court and citation for its probate was issued returnable May 18. The testator gives his entire estate to his wife, Annie B. Gordon, whom he appoints executrix. The will was executed April 25, 1914, and witnessed by Jesse J. Christiansa of Kyserike and Dr. James Oliver of High Falls. The value of the estate is stated to be unknown. Van Etten & Cook appeared for the executrix.

Letters of administration on the estate of William S. Mead, of the town of Woodstock, were issued to his widow, Mrs. Annie Mead. The value of the estate is $1,000 personal property. Joseph M. Fowler appeared for the administratrix.

Letters of administration on the estate of Mary Perkins Warner of this city were issued to George H. Decker. The value of the estate is $3,000 real estate and $1,800 personal property. Frederick Stephan, Jr., appeared for the administrator.

Letters of administration on the estate of Louis Berger of the town of Rochester were issued to Winne Berger, his widow. The value of the estate is $2,500 real estate and $400 personal property. H. Westlake Coons appeared for the administratrix.

Letters of administration on the estate of Ella S. Davis of this city were issued to her mother, Elizabeth S. Davis. The value of the estate is $250 personal property. Van Etten & Cook appeared for the administratrix.

Letters of administration on the estate of Lucetta B. Deyo of the town of Shawangunk, issued to her daughter, Gertrude C. Deyo. The value of the estate is $4,000 personal property. Petition for letters of administration on the estate of Robert D. DeLaney filed by Frances Margaret Barber, a niece, and a citation has been issued returnable June 22. The value of the estate is $3,500 real estate and $3,000 personal property. Virgil B. Van Wagoner appeared for the petitioner.

In the estate of Minnie L. Meyers of the town of Saugerties, a petition was filed by Millard Post for an order to show cause why an accounting should not be had by William Post, as executor of the estate of Byron C. Post, who was appointed administrator of the Meyers estate, and a citation was issued returnable May 26. Floyd W. Powell appeared for the petitioner.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

9911.—A Dainty Lingerie Model—Ladies' Princess Slip. (With or Without Flounce.)

What is prettier than a garment of this style developed in soft nainsook or lawn, and trimmed with insertion and lace, or with embroidery, or better still, to decorate with hand embroidery in some simple easily worked pattern. This model is not difficult to develop, and may be made of long cloth, silk or batiste as well as other lingerie fabrics. The shoulder straps may be replaced by ribbon. The flounce may be omitted. The pattern is cut in 6 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. It requires 3 1/2 yards of 36 inch material for the 36 inch size, without flounce. Flounce requires 1 1/2 yard. The skirt portion and flounce measure 1 1/2 yard at the lower edge.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Rondout, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

Catalogue Notice.

Send 10 cents in silver or stamps for our up-to-date 1914 Spring and Summer Catalogue containing over 400 designs of Ladies' Misses', and Children's Patterns; also a concise and comprehensive article on dress-making, giving valuable hints to the home dressmaker.

The Wauna Sanitarium.

There seems to be some misunderstanding regarding the exact plan of operation of the Wauna Sanitarium, No. 231 Albany avenue, which is to open on June first. There will be no out of town physicians connected with the sanitarium which will be open to all the physicians of Kingston. In fact the sanitarium will depend entirely on the local doctors as its medical and surgical attendants, there being no house staff. Patients may have their own particular nurse or may be cared for by the resident nurse.

CITY HALL LOCKUP MAY BE CLOSED

City Officials Cited to Show Cause Why an Order to Close it Should Not be Issued.

Albany, May 9.—The city authorities of Kingston have been cited by the state commissioner of prisons to show cause at the next meeting of the commissioner at Albany on June 2, why the city jail should not be closed because of its inadequacy and insanitary condition, as provided in Chapter 379 of the laws of 1914.

The commission has approved the following report of an inspection made April 22, by Commissioner Rudolph F. Diebling of Saugerties: City of Kingston, Ulster county. Inspected April 22, 1914.

This jail remains the same as noted in the last report of inspection. It is located in the rear part of the city hall, on the first floor, consists of eight brick cells, one of which contains a sanitary closet and wash bowl with running water; this was very dirty and in an unsanitary condition. In the other cells buckets are used.

The jail is not modern and has no place for women or minors. Chief Wood stated that all persons arrested under the age of sixteen were paroled in custody of parents; the common council on April 3, 1914, took up the matter of putting the jail in a sanitary condition and it was referred to the committee on public buildings. The dark cells should be eliminated.

During the year 1913, 891 men applied and received lodging at police headquarters.

Four hundred eighty-six arrests were made during the year; 456 males and 30 females.

I would recommend a larger and more sanitary jail.

Respectfully submitted,

RUDOLPH F. DIEBLING,

Commissioner.

LAST DAY OF CHILD WELFARE EXHIBIT

The child welfare exhibit at the armory will close this evening, having been here since Wednesday, and those who have not seen it should visit the armory tonight. The exhibit is one of the most interesting and instructive shown in Kingston and every parent should make it a point to see it. The attendance has been very gratifying to those in charge of the exhibit and all day Friday large numbers attended the armory and talked with Mrs. Chichester, the trained nurse in charge.

Friday evening the meeting was in charge of the Federation of Women's Clubs and Mrs. M. J. Michael presided, and addresses were made by Dr. Van Hovenberg, Dr. Mary Gage-Day and Mrs. Finnegan of the state board of health. Dr. Van Hovenberg spoke of the need of infant welfare work in this city. Dr. Day discussed the work of the Federation of Women's Clubs in Kingston and gave a very interesting account of the work accomplished, and also spoke of her work as medical inspector of the public schools in the city and of the cases that had come to her attention. She said that the course of studies as arranged were for the average child and that many backward children were unable to keep up in their studies with the other students. She believed that it would pay to have fresh air schools in Kingston for deficient children so that they could be developed into self supporting men and women. She said that something like $20,000 annually is required to care for those who have failed to make good. She believed that segregating the feeble minded was the proper thing to do.

Mrs. Michael spoke briefly in regard to the city's milk supply and the meeting was brought to a close with an address by Mrs. Finnegan, who spoke along the lines of child welfare and clean milk. She believed that a welfare station should be established in the city.

Don't forget that this interesting exhibit closes tonight.

SAUGERTIES.

Saugerties, May 9.—M. E. Donlon is terracing the lawn in front of his residence on Washington avenue.

Frank Leaycraft of Hunter was a visitor in town Friday evening.

The subscription dance in Russell Hall on Friday evening was attended by a large crowd. The music was furnished by Prof. Hoyer's orchestra.

Miss Lulu Sorge of Ulster avenue has re-entered the employ of the New York Telephone Company.

Irving Russell is able to walk out on crutches.

John Lavelle has been elected an active member of the Washington Hook and Ladder Company.

The Daughters of the American Revolution will hold a "dansen" in Russell's Hall next Friday evening. Tickets are fifty cents.

James Montross of Castleton, N. Y., is visiting his grandfather, James Montross, of Partition street.

Those Who Have Moved.

Mrs. Jason Gibson and Miss DeWitt have sold their place on Washington avenue and have moved to the house on Washington avenue next to the Van Aken property.

Archie Dean has moved from his former residence on Main street to No. 117 Green street.

Miss Costello, who formerly had her primary and kindergarten school at her home on Pearl street, has moved to 301 Washington avenue.

Mrs. Maben, whose property on John street has become the property of the county, has moved to No. 75 Pearl street.

Chemical analysis of an ordinary cup of coffee shows that it contains about 2 1/2 grains of the drug caffeine.

By actual test the U. S. Government demonstrated that 5 grains of caffeine (the amount in 2 cups of coffee) were sufficient to kill a rabbit.

Of course, human beings are stronger than rabbits, but there are few people who can drink coffee regularly without sooner or later feeling the effects of caffeine poisoning, commonly shown in headache, indigestion, biliousness, sleeplessness, heart agitation and other ills.

Thousands of people tired of coffee troubles, have found relief by changing to

POSTUM

Made only from choice whole wheat and a bit of molasses, POSTUM is a pure food-drink with a delicious taste. It contains nourishment, including the vital phosphates grown in the grain, but is absolutely free from the coffee drug, caffeine, or any other harmful substance.

Postum now comes in two forms:

Regular Postum—must be boiled. 15c and 25c pkgs.

Instant Postum—a soluble powder, requires no boiling. A spoonful stirred into a cup of hot water makes a delicious beverage instantly. 30c and 50c tins.

The cost per cup of both kinds is about the same.

AT ONCEMATTERS BEFORE THE SURROGATE

The will of Frank L. Gordon, of the town of Marlborough, has been filed with Surrogate Gill in the surrogate's court and citation for its probate was issued returnable May 18. The testator gives his entire estate to his wife, Annie B. Gordon, whom he appoints executrix. The will was executed April 25, 1914, and witnessed by Jesse J. Christiana of Kyserike and Dr. James Oliver of High Falls. The value of the estate is stated to be unknown. Van Etten & Cook appeared for the executrix.

Letters of administration on the estate of William S. Mead, of the town of Woodstock, were issued to his widow, Mrs. Annie Mead. The value of the estate is $1,000 personal property. Joseph M. Fowler appeared for the administratrix.

Letters of administration on the estate of Mary Perkins Warner of this city were issued to George H. Decker. The value of the estate is $3,000 real estate and $1,800 personal property. Frederick Stephan, Jr., appeared for the administrator.

Letters of administration on the estate of Louis Berger of the town of Rochester were issued to Winne Berger, his widow. The value of the estate is $2,500 real estate and $4,000 personal property. H. Westlake Coons appeared for the administratrix.

Letters of administration on the estate of Lucetta B. Deyo of the town of Shawangunk, issued to her daughter, Gertrude C. Deyo. The value of the estate is $4,000 personal property.

Petition for letters of administration on the estate of Robert D. Delaney filed by Frances Margaret Barter, a niece, and a citation has been issued returnable June 22. The value of the estate is $3,500 real estate and $3,000 personal property. Virgil B. Van Wagoner appeared for the petitioner.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

9911.—A Dainty Lingerie Model—Ladies' Princess Slip. (With or Without Flounce.)

What is prettier than a garment of this style developed in soft nainsook or lawn, and trimmed with insertion and lace, or with embroidery, or better still, to decorate with hand embroidery in some simple easily worked pattern. This model is not difficult to develop, and may be made of long cloth, silk or batiste as well as other lingerie fabrics. The shoulder straps may be replaced by ribbon. The flounce may be omitted. The pattern is cut in 6 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. It requires 3 1/2 yards of 36 inch material for the 36 inch size, without flounce. Flounce requires 1 1/4 yard. The skirt portion and flounce measure 1 1/2 yard at the lower edge.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Rondout, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

Catalogue Notice.

Send 10 cents in silver or stamps for our up-to-date 1914 Spring and Summer Catalogue containing over 400 designs of Ladies' Misses' and Children's Patterns; also a concise and comprehensive article on dress-making, giving valuable hints to the home dressmaker.

The Wauna Sanitarium.

There seems to be some misunderstanding regarding the exact plan of operation of the Wauna Sanitarium, No. 231 Albany avenue, which is to open on June first. There will be no out of town physicians connected with the sanitarium which will be open to all the physicians of Kingston. In fact the sanitarium will depend entirely on the local doctors as its medical and surgical attendants, there being no house staff. Patients may have their own particular nurse or may be cared for by the resident nurse.

City Officials Cited to Show Cause Why an Order to Close it Should Not be Issued.

Albany, May 9.—The city authorities of Kingston have been cited by the state commissioner of prisons to show cause at the next meeting of the commissioner at Albany on June 2, why the city jail should not be closed because of its inadequacy and insanitary condition, as provided in Chapter 379 of the laws of 1914.

The commission has approved the following report of an inspection made April 22, by Commissioner Rudolph F. Diedling of Saugerties: City of Kingston, Ulster county. Inspected April 22, 1914.

This jail remains the same as noted in the last report of inspection. It is located in the rear part of the city hall, on the first floor, consists of eight brick cells, one of which contains a sanitary closet and wash bowl with running water; this was found very dirty and in an insanitary condition. In the other cells buckets are used.

The jail is not modern and has no place for women or minors. Chief Wood stated that all persons arrested under the age of sixteen were paroled in custody of parents; the common council on April 3, 1914, took up the matter of putting the jail in a sanitary condition and it was referred to the committee on public buildings. The dark cells should be eliminated.

During the year 1913, 891 men applied and received lodging at police headquarters.

Four hundred eighty-six arrests were made during the year; 456 males and 30 females.

I would recommend a larger and more sanitary jail.

Respectfully submitted, RUDOLPH F. DIEDLING, Commissioner.

LAST DAY OF CHILD WELFARE EXHIBIT

The child welfare exhibit at the armory will close this evening, having been here since Wednesday, and those who have not seen it should visit the armory tonight. The exhibit is one of the most interesting and instructive shown in Kingston and every parent should make it a point to see it. The attendance has been very gratifying to those in charge of the exhibit and all day Friday large numbers attended the armory and talked with Mrs. Chester, the trained nurse in charge.

Friday evening the meeting was in charge of the Federation of Women's Clubs and Mrs. M. J. Michael presided, and addresses were made by Dr. Van Hovenberg, Dr. Mary Gage-Day and Mrs. Finnegan of the state board of health. Dr. Van Hovenberg spoke of the need of infant welfare work in this city. Dr. Day discussed the work of the Federation of Women's Clubs in Kingston and gave a very interesting account of the work accomplished, and also spoke of her work as medical inspector of the public schools in the city and of the cases that had come to her attention. She said that the course of studies as arranged were for the average child and that many backward children were unable to keep up in their studies with the other students. She believed that it would pay to have fresh air schools in Kingston for deficient children so that they could be developed into self supporting men and women. She said that something like $20,000 annually is required to care for those who have failed to make good. She believed that segregating the feeble minded was the proper thing to do.

Mrs. Michael spoke briefly in regard to the city's milk supply and the meeting was brought to a close with an address by Mrs. Finnegan, who spoke along the lines of child welfare and clean milk. She believed that a welfare station should be established in the city. Don't forget that this interesting exhibit closes tonight.

Chemical analysis of an ordinary cup of coffee shows that it contains about 2 1/2 grains of the drug caffeine.

By actual test the U. S. Government demonstrated that 5 grains of caffeine (the amount in 2 cups of coffee) were sufficient to kill a rabbit.

An Episode of New York Society

By RUTH GRAHAM

When John Kenworthy went to New York he had made a big fortune in railroads. He had cleaned up some fifteen or twenty millions and was a director in many roads. He was thirty-five years old when he struck the metropolis, and it occurred to him that he would like to see society. Society is not to be seen without a ticket of admission any more than a theatrical performance. Kenworthy, remembering that the players of Vanity Fair must have big salaries and that such salaries must be contributed by those who are able to pay, concluded to invest a small quantum of his income in the show.

An officer of one of the companies in which Kenworthy was interested who knew New York well, being applied to for information, gave it thus:

"There are both rich and poor in the charmed circle. The poor usually hold their right of entrance by inheritance; the rich have bought their way in. There are many poor families that if they could sell their social birthright would reap a fortune by the transaction. They can't do that, and many of them would not do it if they could. But they can help the outsiders to get inside for a consideration and will do so provided they have confidence in the discretion of the outsider."

"I see," said Kenworthy. "How would such a transaction be managed?" "I will introduce you to a young man whose family has been in the swim for 150 years. He will take charge of your entry into society if it is intimated that he will be given a perfunctory position at a salary of $20,000 a year in the office of one of your railroads—keeper of the securities, with deputies to guard them."

Kenworthy was introduced to George de Rotter, whose ancestors came to New York in 1636 and opened a dye house. De Rotter was appointed sixth vice president of a railroad, with duties requiring his attention once a week for two hours. His salary was to be $20,000 a year for at least one year. He was to lift Mr. Kenworthy up the steps—one step at a time—of the temple of fashion.

One evening De Rotter announced to Mrs. de Lawney that he was arranging a dinner for a gentleman from the west and asked permission to put her name and that of her daughter Marguerite on the list of invited guests. Mrs. de Lawney graciously accepted, and when De Rotter had gone she found a thousand dollar bill between the leaves of a book he had been reading while waiting for her to come down to receive him.

This was not the first such transaction that had taken place between them. But Marguerite, a high bred and truly refined scion of good old stock, was not cognizant of them. She knew the family finances were low and wondered how her mother managed to keep their heads above the surface. Mr. de Rotter, though he relied on the discretion of his employer, thought it worth while to tell him that if Marguerite de Lawney should hear that she had been paid to attend his entertainment it would produce a commotion.

This statement made an impression on Kenworthy. He desired to buy persons, but persons who were not to be purchased had for him an indescribable charm. He directed De Rotter to assign Miss de Lawney to the host for a dinner companion and when the affair came off was much struck with the lady. Many of those who knew that they were hired to be present at his functions, considering that they had done their part in accepting his invitation, gave him an icy shoulder. Here was one who supposed that she was being entertained as a guest, one whose bearing showed conclusively that she was to the manner born, who smiled on him. Kenworthy passed the happiest evening of his life, and it seemed that Miss de Lawney had really enjoyed herself. If so she was the only one present except the host who had.

De Rotter was a skillful conductor, and Kenworthy was discreet. He knew that his guests were paid to attend his functions, and they—excepting Miss de Lawney—knew that they were paid. Kenworthy continued his attentions to the young lady and in time proposed. So great was her pain at refusing him that he really felt sorry for her.

Having seen all he wished to see of New York society, he packed up his traps to go back to the west. Before leaving he wrote a note to De Rotter especially enjoining on him, as he valued a second year's salary, to keep from Miss de Lawney the fact that payment had been made for attendance at his functions. De Rotter had been sharp enough to see that Kenworthy had fallen in love. He inclosed Kenworthy's note to Mrs. de Lawney in one of his own, in which he informed her that he believed her daughter had thrown away millions.

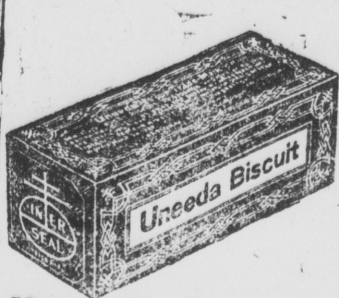

By an accident this note fell into Marguerite's hands. She wrote a note full of grief and mortified pride to the man who had asked her to be his wife. He returned to New York for the purpose of calming her.

"I never dreamed," she said, "that the society of my ancestors had sunk so low. They were what I supposed I was till today."

Kenworthy again set about winning her and finally succeeded. He took her west with him, and she has never since seen her native city.

An Episode of New York Society

By RUTH GRAHAM

When John Kenworthy went to New York he had made a big fortune in railroads. He had cleaned up some fifteen or twenty millions and was a director in many roads. He was thirty-five years old when he struck the metropolis, and it occurred to him that he would like to see society. Society is not to be seen without a ticket of admission any more than a theatrical performance. Kenworthy, remembering that the players of Vanity Fair must have big salaries and that such salaries must be contributed by those who are able to pay, concluded to invest a small quantum of his income in the show.

An officer of one of the companies in which Kenworthy was interested who knew New York well, being applied to for information, gave it thus: "There are both rich and poor in the charmed circle. The poor usually hold their right of entrance by inheritance; the rich have bought their way in. There are many poor families that if they could sell their social birthright would reap a fortune by the transaction. They can't do that, and many of them would not do it if they could. But they can help the outsiders to get inside for a consideration and will do so provided they have confidence in the discretion of the outsider."

"I see," said Kenworthy. "How would such a transaction be managed?" "I will introduce you to a young man whose family has been in the swim for 150 years. He will take charge of your entry into society if it is intimated that he will be given a perfunctory position at a salary of $20,000 a year in the office of one of your railroads—keeper of the securities, with deputies to guard them."

Kenworthy was introduced to George de Rotter, whose ancestors came to New York in 1636 and opened a dye house. De Rotter was appointed sixth vice president of a railroad, with duties requiring his attention once a week for two hours. His salary was to be $20,000 a year for at least one year. He was to lift Mr. Kenworthy up the steps—one step at a time—of the temple of fashion.

One evening De Rotter announced to Mrs. de Lawney that he was arranging a dinner for a gentleman from the west and asked permission to put her name and that of her daughter Marguerite on the list of invited guests. Mrs. de Lawney graciously accepted, and when De Rotter had gone she found a thousand dollar bill between the leaves of a book he had been reading while waiting for her to come down to receive him.

This was not the first such transaction that had taken place between them. But Marguerite, a high bred and truly refined scion of good old stock, was not content with it. She knew the family finances were low and wondered how her mother managed to keep their heads above the surface. Mr. de Rotter, though he relied on the discretion of his employer, thought it worth while to tell him that if Marguerite de Lawney should hear that she had been paid to attend his entertainment it would produce a commotion.

This statement made an impression on Kenworthy. He desired to buy persons, but persons who were not to be purchased had for him an indescribable charm. He directed De Rotter to assign Miss de Lawney to the host for a dinner companion and when the affair came off was much struck with the lady. Many of those who knew that they were hired to be present at his functions, considering that they had done their part in accepting his invitation, gave him an icy shoulder. Here was one who supposed that she was being entertained as a guest, one whose bearing showed conclusively that she was to the manner born, who smiled on him. Kenworthy passed the happiest evening of his life, and it seemed that Miss de Lawney had really enjoyed herself. If so she was the only one present except the host who had.

De Rotter was a skillful conductor, and Kenworthy was discreet. He knew that his guests were paid to attend his functions, and they—excepting Miss de Lawney—knew that they were paid. Kenworthy continued his attentions to the young lady and in time proposed. So great was her pain at refusing him that he really felt sorry for her.

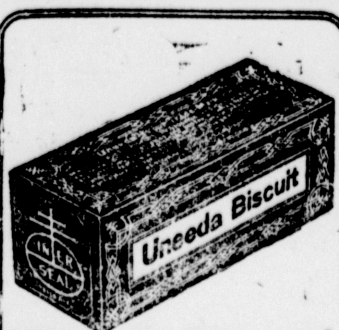

Having seen all he wished to see of New York society, he packed up his traps to go back to the west. Before leaving he wrote a note to De Rotter especially enjoining on him, as he valued a second year's salary, to keep from Miss de Lawney the fact that payment had been made for attendance at his functions. De Rotter had been sharp enough to see that Kenworthy had fallen in love. He inclosed Kenworthy's note to Mrs. de Lawney in one of his own, in which he informed her that he believed her daughter had thrown away millions.

By an accident this note fell into Marguerite's hands. She wrote a note full of grief and mortified pride to the man who had asked her to be his wife. He returned to New York for the purpose of calming her.

"I never dreamed," she said, "that the society of my ancestors had sunk so low. They were what I supposed I was till today."

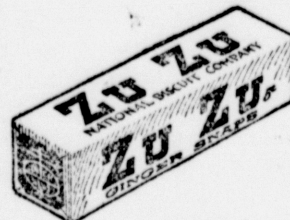

Kenworthy again set about winning her and finally succeeded. He took her west with him, and she has never since seen her native city.

Not a Matter of Wages. "No person can live properly on less than a thousand a year," says a writer. But some persons wouldn't live properly no matter how much or how little they got.

SILVERSTEIN OUT ON HABEAS CORPUS

Isadore Silverstein's second step in his fight to avoid paying the $2,000 verdict against him in county court by Miss Julia Riley of Maple Hill was the securing of a writ of habeas corpus returnable before Judge Mayer of the United States district court in New York city at 10:30 o'clock this morning. His first step was the filing a petition in bankruptcy early this month. Isadore in company with Deputy Sheriff Isaac Doyle went to New York city this morning on the early train. Isadore was arrested in New York city on April 29 on a body execution secured by Miss Riley and was locked up in the county jail the following day. He secured a bondsman who furnished bonds in the sum of $4,200 and Isadore was allowed the liberty of the jail limits, but only for a day or so when his bondsman surrendered him to the custody of the sheriff and the bond was cancelled. Miss Riley's attorneys are Rose & Brooks who are represented in New York city by Attorney Arthur Brown. Miss Riley was injured by the automobile driven by Isadore in the terrible accident in 1912 on the Rosendale road when Mr. Silverstein, Isadore's father was killed, and his mother was seriously injured and confined to the hospital for a long time. After her recovery they moved to New York city where Isadore was arrested.

Mrs. Margaret W. O'Connor, formerly of Kingston, has successfully completed a three year course in nursing. She was graduated from the Bellevue Training School for Nurses of New York city on April 13. Miss O'Connor was an honor member of the class of 1914, and has the distinction of having written the class poem.

Motorcycle Accident.

Joseph Murphy is confined to his home, 42 Stephan street, with a badly sprained ankle and a cut over one eye received when he was thrown from his motorcycle on O'Neill street on Friday afternoon. As near as can be learned Murphy was riding through O'Neill street when the machine hit a bump in the road, hurling him off. The motorcycle was not damaged to any extent. Dr. George Van Gaasbeek took Murphy home in his automobile, and he will be laid up for several days.

Pay Your Dog Tax.

The police are now collecting dog license fees at police headquarters at the city hall. Since the first of the month there has not been such a great influx of dog owners as to swamp the attendants there with making out licenses and issuing tags and unless there is a response in a short time a systematic search will be made of the city to see that the tax is paid.

LEIBHARDT.

Leibhardt, May 9.—Remember the date of the ice cream social on the school house lawn Saturday evening, May 16. Refreshments of all kinds will be served. Everybody invited to attend. If stormy the social will be held on Saturday evening, May 30.

A number from Leibhardt will attend the Barnum & Bailey show at Kingston May 23.

Clyde Brown played with the Kerhonkson nine on Saturday.

Those who attended the entertainment and social at Tabasco last Thursday evening reported a very pleasant time.

Mrs. Georgia Hornbeck is spending some time with Mrs. Marshal Bishop at Kerhonkson, while her daughter, Mrs. Douglas Black, is away on her honeymoon.

Miss Nina Quick is assisting Mrs. Oscar Quick with her house work.

Mrs. Agnes Brown, Mrs. D. J. Brown and children were in Kingston Thursday.

We are all glad to hear the grip patients are on the gain.

Master James Kelder was in Kerhonkson one day last week to consult the doctor about his head. Mr. Kelder had a bad attack of the grip. Glad to hear he is improving.

It has been reported in our little adjoining hamlet, Rochester Center, that we not only had numerous cases of measles but cases of scarlet fever. At this writing we know of only two cases of the latter. People talk too much. They roll gossip like a sweet morsel under their tongue, not realizing they are not only belittling themselves and doing an injustice to their neighbors but an incalculable injury to the place. There are people who are so busy attending to their neighbor's affairs that they have very little time for their own. For goodness sake, talk of something else part of the time, superior to petty gossip! There is so much worth talking of at this season of the year.

Asa Hornbeck has returned to Mohonk after spending a week at his home.

Many friends in this place are sorry to hear of the serious illness of Mrs. Adam Steindard of Amsterdam. We hope she is in better health by this time. Mr. and Mrs. Steindard were former residents of this place and have many relatives and friends in this vicinity.

Ross Brown has employment with H. D. Green & Sons for the summer season.

Miss Georgia Hornbeck and friend Webster Brown, enjoyed a drive to Kerhonkson Tuesday evening.

William Hornbeck had a bee Thursday afternoon to draw stone.

Much credit is due our teacher, Mr. Myer, in his drilling for the nice Arbor Day exercises. Each one took their part very nicely. A number of visitors were present and were much pleased with the program.

Two Aviators Killed.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Stettin, Germany, May 9.—Lieutenants Fabre and Kurtz of the Imperial army aviation corps were instantly killed in an aeroplane accident at the Krekow maneuver grounds today. The machine in which they were making a trial flight collapsed at a height of 700 feet and both were crushed to death by the fall.

Music at Baby Show.

At the Child Welfare exhibit in the armory this evening there will be no lectures but an orchestra will give a fine musical program which will be well worth listening to.

HERRICK MAY BE REMOVED TO MAKE ROOM FOR M'ADOO.

Myron T. Herrick, appointed U. S. ambassador to France by President Taft, who has continued at that post because of President Wilson's failure to find a successor, but who may now be removed to make way for Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo. Incident to Secretary Wilson's marriage to Miss Eleanor Wilson a rumor was circulated in official circles at Washington to the effect that McAdoo was to resign his place in the cabinet and be nominated to succeed Herrick in Paris.

Mr. Ingram's Condition.

There has been no change in the critical condition of Henry B. Ingram, who was seized with a paralytic stroke on Wednesday evening at Dr. Brown's school for boys near Al-laben, and this morning he was in a semi-conscious condition at the Kingston City Hospital. Small hopes for his ultimate recovery are held out.

A Fine Sidewalk.

C. E. Emerick has completed laying the concrete sidewalk on the McEntag street side of St. Mary's new school and is making further progress on the Broadway side, where it will be much wider. The new sidewalk will be a great improvement to some of the walks in that neighborhood.

Feeding on Sunlight.

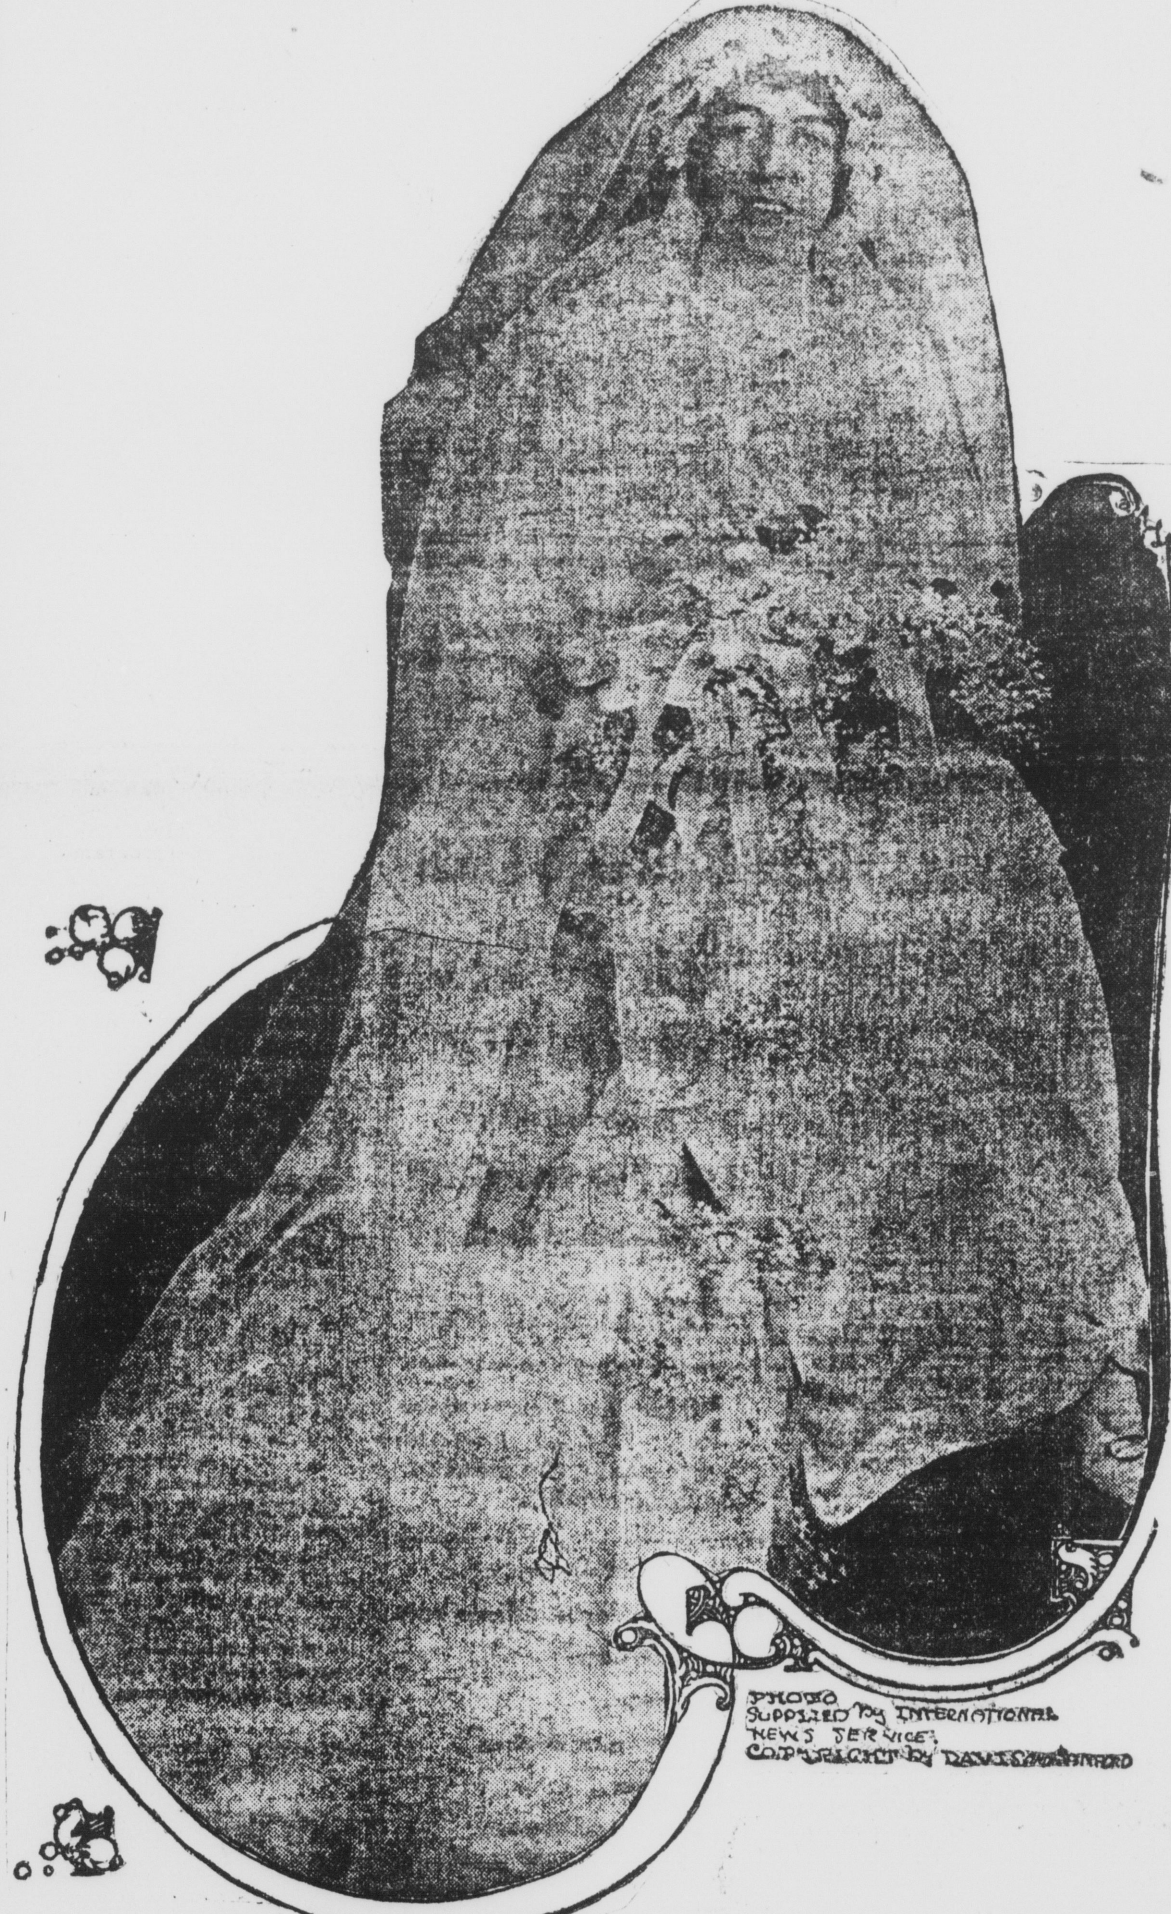

Major Miramond de la Roquette of the French army medical corps in reporting to the Academie des Sciences the results of some observations in southern Algeria on the relation between diet and sunlight gave it as his opinion that the tissues of the human body directly utilize the radiant energy of the sunshine. The normal diet of the natives of hot and sunny climes is far lower both in quantity and in nutritive quality than that of inhabitants of less favored regions, the sunlight seeming to make up the difference.

Miss O'Connor was an honor member of the class of 1914, and has the distinction of having written the class poem.

Motorcycle Accident.

Joseph Murphy is confined to his home, 42 Stephan street, with a badly sprained ankle and a cut over one eye received when he was thrown from his motorcycle on O'Neil street on Friday afternoon. As near as can be learned Murphy was riding through O'Neil street when the machine hit a bump in the road, hurling him off. The motorcycle was not damaged to any extent. Dr. George Van Gaasbeek took Murphy home in his automobile, and he will be laid up for several days.

Pay Your Dog Tax.

The police are now collecting dog license fees at police headquarters at the city hall. Since the first of the month there has not been such a great influx of dog owners as to swamp the attendants there with making out licenses and issuing tags and unless there is a response in a short time a systematic search will be made of the city to see that the tax is paid.

This evening the All Wilbur baseball club will hold a dance in Washington Hall. Martin's full orchestra will furnish music for the dance.

LEIBHARDT.

Leibhardt, May 9.—Remember the date of the ice cream social on the school house lawn Saturday evening, May 16. Refreshments of all kinds will be served. Everybody invited to attend. If stormy the social will be held on Saturday evening, May 30.

A number from Leibhardt will attend the Barnum & Bailey show at Kingston May 22.

Clyde Brown played with the Kerhonkson nine on Saturday.

Those who attended the entertainment and social at Tabasco last Thursday evening reported a very pleasant time.

Mrs. Georgia Hornbeck is spending some time with Mrs. Marshall Bishop at Kerhonkson, while her daughter, Mrs. Douglas Black, is away on her honeymoon.

Miss Nina Quick is assisting Mrs. Oscar Quick with her house work.

Mrs. Agnes Brown, Mrs. D. J. Brown and children were in Kingston Thursday.

We are all glad to hear the grip patients are on the gain.

Master James Kelder was in Kerhonkson one day last week to consult the doctor about his head. Mr. Kelder had a bad attack of the grip. Glad to hear he is improving.

It has been reported in our little adjoining hamlet, Rochester Center, that we not only had numerous cases of measles but cases of scarlet fever.

At this writing we know of only two cases of measles and not a single case of the latter. People talk too much. They roll cozzies like a sweet morsel under their tongue, not realizing they are not only belittling themselves and doing an injustice to their neighbors but an incalculable injury to the place. There are people who are so busy attending to their neighbor's affairs that they have very little time for their own. For goodness sake, talk of something else part of the time, superior to petty gossip!

There is so much worth talking of at this season of the year.

Asa Hornbeck has returned to Mohonk after spending a week at his home.

Many friends in this place are sorry to hear of the serious illness of Mrs. Adam Steindard of Amsterdam. We hope she is in better health by this time. Mr. and Mrs. Steindard were former residents of this place and have many relatives and friends in this vicinity.

Ross Brown has employment with H. D. Green & Sons for the summer season.

Miss Georgia Hornbeck and friend Webster Brown, enjoyed a drive to Kerhonkson Tuesday evening.

William Hornbeck had a bee Thursday afternoon to draw stone.

Much credit is due our teacher, Mr. Myer. In his drilling of the nice Arbor Day exercises. Each one took their part very nicely. A number of visitors were present and were much pleased with the program.

Two Aviators Killed.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Stettin, Germany, May 9.—Lieutenants Fabre and Kurtz of the Imperial army aviation corps were instantly killed in an aeroplane accident at the Krokow maneuver grounds today. The machine in which they were making a trial flight collapsed at a height of 700 feet and both were crushed to death by the fall.

Music at Baby Show.

At the Child Welfare exhibit in the armory this evening there will be no lectures but an orchestra will give a fine musical program which will be well worth listening to.

HERRICK MAY BE REMOVED TO MAKE ROOM FOR M'ADOO.

Myron T. Herrick, appointed U. S. ambassador to France by President Taft, who has continued at that post because of President Wilson's failure to find a successor, but who may now be removed to make way for Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo. Incident to Secretary McAdoo's marriage to Miss Eleanor Wilson a rumor was circulated in official circles at Washington to the effect that McAdoo was to resign his place in the cabinet and be nominated to succeed Herrick in Paris.

Mr. Ingram's Condition.

There has been no change in the critical condition of Henry B. Ingram, who was seized with a paralytic stroke on Wednesday evening at Dr. Brown's school for boys near Alhambra, and this morning he was in a semi-conscious condition at the Kingston City Hospital. Small hopes for his ultimate recovery are held out.

A Fine Sidewalk.

C. E. Emerick has completed laying the concrete sidewalk on the McEnteg street side of St. Mary's new school and is making further progress on the Broadway side, where it will be much wider. The new sidewalk will be a great improvement to some of the walks in that neighborhood.

Feeding on Sunlight.

Major Miramond de la Roquette of the French army medical corps in reporting to the Academie des Sciences the results of some observations in southern Algeria on the relation between diet and sunlight gave it as his opinion that the tissues of the human body directly utilize the radiant energy of the sunshine. The normal diet of the natives of hot and sunny climates is far lower both in quantity and in nutritive quality than that of the inhabitants of less favored regions, the sunlight seeming to make up the difference.

An Extraordinary Man.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke.)

New York, May 9.—There are tricks in every trade, but some of those that are used in pugilism vie with all the others for the championship.

A number of years ago there was a punching person in Montana who claimed the heavyweight championship of the state. He grabbed off a theatrical engagement and lured a lot of victims by his offer of $100 to each and every man who remained on his feet for four rounds.

This pug met with wonderful success. Every man he succeeded in getting onto the stage went down and out usually in the first round. They were knocked out; there was no denying that. But the victims loudly asserted that it wasn't a punch from the alleged champion. It was because of a blow "from behind." But the phenomenal success of the pug remained a mystery, until one day Stanley Ketchell, later the middleweight champion, was found back of the scenery. Then the truth came out.

The champ's trick was to work his opponent up against the scenery whereupon Ketchell, armed with a club, would whang the poor boob on the knob, and, of course, send him down for the full count—and usually a little longer.

"Spider" Kelly, of San Francisco, never was a really great fighter, yet he won many bouts, and stayed the limit with even the wonderful Joe Gans because of a little trick he had of talking to and jeering his opponent throughout the bout. Kelly usually would pick out some subject that would be sure to divert his rival's mind from the real business of fighting, and then would soak his opponent for the count of ten.

When Bob Fitzsimmons tackled George Gardner, many years ago, Bob broke his right hand early in the battle. The hand was useless, but Bob didn't let Gardner know. At the opening of each round Bob would swing with his right, making sure that the right wouldn't land, but making it look to Gardner as if he really was aiming the punch at him. Fitz fought Gardner with one hand during nearly ten rounds of the fight and Gardner never knew it. Fitz's race won for him.

Joe Chynski found that an ordinary punch wouldn't make Tom Sharkey groggy. So Joe worked Tom around in the ring until Tom's head was almost up against one of the ring posts. Then Joe landed a terrific wallop against Tom's head. Tom's dome got another bump when it went back against the post and the double wallop so dazed Tom that Chynski was able to last throughout the fight.

"Australian Billy" Murphy invented the stalling trick. He was up against a fighter once who had an almost perfect defense. Murphy could puncture it but rarely. So Murphy hit upon the "stalling" idea. A round or so later the other fellow smashed one against Murphy's chin. The Australian doubled up, as though on the point of collapsing. Seeing this, and not seeing through the trick, the other gentleman came rushing in toward Murphy with his defense down, intent only on delivering the final blow. He closed up, drew back to swing, and then, like a lightning flash, Murphy straightened up, shot out a terrific right against the unprotected jaw and the other chap went down for the full count.

SECRETS OF BACKSTOP

HOW CUB CATCHER PROTECTS HIS HANDS DURING GAME.

Many Chicago National League Reverts Benefit by Instructions of Veteran Player—Seldom Bothered With Stonebruises.

Jimmy Archer, as long as he has been with the Chicago Cub team, has been rather conservative about his method of catching so cleverly behind the plate. It has not been because he does not want youngsters or other catchers to learn his secrets.

In instructing youngsters about the art of working behind the batter he is one of the most liberal in the country, and all the recruits who have ever been on the team since Archer has been on it have learned the finer points of the work, writes Oscar C. Reichow in Chicago Daily News. He has taught "Bubbles" Hargrave a lot this spring, and that youngster is now one of the best prospects the Cubs have had in some years.

In the springtime most catchers are troubled with stonebruises on their receiving hands because of the tenderness of the flesh after a winter of idleness. Archer, when he began catching, found a scheme to avoid bruises of that nature, but never revealed his method to his teammates because he thought they had systems of their own. This spring, however, he acquired a stonebruise, and it is the first one he has had in years, and it was due mostly to an accident.

While watching batting practice at Cincinnati he was hit on the fingers with a foul tip. To avoid hurting his digits more he stuck his hand deep into his mitt and caught the ball in the palm of his right hand. This was contrary to his method. As he has only an extremely thin padding on his glove the bruise resulted and when he catches now the pounding of the ball into the center of his glove gives him considerable pain. When his hand is well he does not insert it into the mitt more than half way and catches the ball practically on his finger tips, which avoids all possibility of getting a stonebruise, which is a source of much annoyance to catchers.

Archer's way of catching the ball in his fingers accounts for the steadiness with which he holds the ball at the plate. As soon as the ball strikes the center of his huge mitt his fingers close tightly over it, thereby preventing its dropping out. His trick of using his fingers instead of the palm of his hands also accounts for his un-failing ability to catch foul fly balls. Fans have seen catchers go back to the stand for fouls only to see them strike the glove and bounce out again. Archer seldom drops one, as his fingers grip the ball viselike as soon as the ball hits, no matter how difficult the catch.

The star Cub backstop did not have an error credited to him all last season for dropping a foul fly. Like all great catchers, he seems to know intuitively where the ball goes after leaving the bat. As the ball goes up back of the plate his mask is thrown off and he has plenty of time to get under the ball and generally makes all the catches look easy.

Archer was not exempt from blunders last season, but they were due to wild pegs to the bases. He did not drop a ball at the plate all the year, which is also a point in favor of his method of catching with the big glove.

Elberfeld is Optimistic.
"If the Brooklyn players play the game according to 'Robbie's' ideas they will finish close to the top," said the veteran Kid Elberfeld in discussing the Superbas the other day. "Robbie" has splendid material to work with and he knows every angle of the game. It will take some time, however, to develop the right kind of teamwork. We'll have a winner, sure."

Connie Mack's Secret.
The secret of Connie Mack's success is being exposed in the exchanges. It appears that McInnis, Collins, Barry and Baker have never known the taste of alcoholic liquors.

Suit Against Federals.
President Gaffney of the Braves has sued the Feds for tempting Jack Quinn to the Baltimore club. Twenty-five thousand dollars is the amount asked.

A Pleasing Entertainment.
The Whatsoever Band of young girls of the Rondout Presbyterian Church gave a very pretty and interesting entertainment in the chapel of the church on Friday evening, which was well attended. The program was opened with a pleasing piano solo by Margaret Meeker and was followed by a charming cantata in three parts entitled "A Dream of the Flowers." The cantata told a pretty story of two little girls, Bessie and Cora, taken by Helen Smith and Elsie Soper respectively, who went out in the field to pick May flowers and fell asleep and were visited by a band of charming little fairies and as they slept they dreamed and saw the fairy queen awaken the flowers of spring from their long nap and send them out to the fields and forests where they could be found and picked by the children for May Day. The closing scene was May Day with appropriate May pole dances that were pleasing. One of the best solos of the evening was that of the bumble bee taken by little George Bell. The characters of the cantata were: The May queen, Dorothy Brown; fairy queen, Ruth Scott; herald "morning glory," Elizabeth Kingman; bumble bee, George Bell; Bessie, Helen Smith; Cora, Elsie Soper. The flowers were Francelia Anderson, Mae Dohnken, Anna Rodie, Elizabeth Brown, Dorothy Beeres, Iva Finley, Sara LeFevre, Dorothy Huhne, Anna Davis and Leona Dixon. The fairies were Eleanor O'Connor, Janet Brown, Margaret Scott, Eleanor Reading, Margaret Rodie, Jean Hamilton, Elizabeth Coutant, and Frances Horton. Those in the chorus were Marion Kingman, Margaret Meeker, Helen Planthaber, Helen McCausland, Llewellyn Gell and Lauretta Schulden. Pleasing features of the program were a monologue given by Dorothy Brown and a violin solo by Marion Kingman. Mrs. I. W. Scott and Miss Arnold, who trained the little girls, deserve credit for a very successful and enjoyable entertainment.

New York, May 9.—There are tricks in every trade, but some of those that are used in pugilism vie with all the others for the championship.

A number of years ago there was a punching person in Montana who claimed the heavyweight championship of the state. He grabbed off a theatrical engagement and lured a lot of victims by his offer of $100 to each and every man who remained on his feet for four rounds.

This pug met with wonderful success. Every man he succeeded in getting onto the stage went down and out usually in the first round. They were knocked out; there was no denying that. But the victims loudly asserted that it wasn't a punch from the alleged champion. It was because of a blow "from behind." But the phenomenal success of the pug remained a mystery, until one day Stanley Ketchell, later the middleweight champion, was found back of the scenery. Then the truth came out.

The champ's trick was to work his opponent up against the scenery whereupon Ketchell, armed with a club, would whang the poor boob on the knob, and, of course, send him down for the full count—and usually a little longer.

"Spider" Kelly, of San Francisco, never was a really great fighter, yet he won many bouts, and stayed the limit with even the wonderful Joe Gans because of a little trick he had of talking to and jeering his opponent throughout the bout. Kelly usually would pick out some subject that would be sure to divert his rival's mind from the real business of fighting, and then would soak his opponent for the count of ten.

When Bob Fitzsimmons tackled George Gardner, many years ago, Bob broke his right hand early in the battle. The hand was useless, but Bob didn't let Gardner know. At the opening of each round Bob would swing with his right, making sure that the right wouldn't land, but making it look to Gardner as if he really was aiming the punch at him. Fitz fought Gardner with one hand during nearly ten rounds of the fight and Gardner never knew it. Fitz's ruse won for him.

Joe Choynski found that an ordinary punch wouldn't make Tom Sharkey groggy. So Joe worked Tom around in the ring until Tom's head was almost up against one of the ring posts. Then Joe landed a terrific wallop against Tom's head. Tom's dome got another bump when it went back against the post and the double wallop so dazed Tom that Choynski was able to last throughout the fight.

"Australian Billy" Murphy invented the stalling trick. He was up against a fighter once who had an almost perfect defense. Murphy could puncture it but rarely. So Murphy hit upon the "stalling" idea. A round or so later the other fellow smashed one against Murphy's chin. The Australian doubled up, as though on the point of collapsing. Seeing this, and not seeing through the trick, the other gentleman came rushing in toward Murphy with his defense down, intent only on delivering the final blow. He closed up, drew back to swing, and then, like a lightning flash, Murphy straightened up, shot out a terrific right against the unprotected jaw and the other chap went down for the full count.

HOW CUB CATCHER PROTECTS HIS HANDS DURING GAME.

Many Chicago National League Reverts Benefit by Instructions of Veteran Player—Seldom Bothered With Stonebruises.

Jimmy Archer, as long as he has been with the Chicago Cub team, has been rather conservative about his method of catching so cleverly behind the plate. It has not been because he does not want youngsters or other catchers to learn his secrets.

In instructing youngsters about the art of working behind the batter he is one of the most liberal in the country, and all the recruits who have ever been on the team since Archer has been on it have learned the finer points of the work, writes Oscar C. Reichow in Chicago Daily News. He has taught "Bubbles" Hargrave a lot this spring, and that youngster is now one of the best prospects the Cubs have had in some years.

In the springtime most catchers are troubled with stonebruises on their receiving hands because of the tenderness of the flesh after a winter of idleness. Archer, when he began catching, found a scheme to avoid bruises of that nature, but never revealed his method to his teammates because he thought they had systems of their own. This spring, however, he acquired a stonebruise, and it is the first one he has had in years, and it was due mostly to an accident.

While watching batting practise at Cincinnati he was hit on the fingers with a foul tip. To avoid hurting his digits more he stuck his hand deep into his mitt and caught the ball in the palm of his right hand. This was contrary to his method. As he has only an extremely thin padding on his glove the bruise resulted and when he catches now the pounding of the ball into the center of his glove gives him considerable pain. When his hand is well he does not insert it into the mitt more than half way and catches the ball practically on his finger tips, which avoids all possibility of getting a stonebruise, which is a source of much annoyance to catchers.

Archer's way of catching the ball in his fingers accounts for the steadiness with which he holds the ball at the plate. As soon as the ball strikes the center of his huge mitt his fingers close tightly over it, thereby preventing its dropping out. His trick of using his fingers instead of the palm of his hands also accounts for his unflinching ability to catch foul fly balls. Fans have seen catchers go back to the stand for fouls only to see them strike the glove and bounce out again. Archer seldom drops one, as his fingers grip the ball viselike as soon as the ball hits, no matter how difficult the catch.

The star Cub backstop did not have an error credited to him all last season for dropping a foul fly. Like all great catchers, he seems to know intuitively where the ball goes after leaving the bat. As the ball goes up back of the plate his mask is thrown off and he has plenty of time to get under the ball and generally makes all the catches look easy.

Archer was not exempt from blunders last season, but they were due to wild pogs to the bases. He did not drop a ball at the plate all the year, which is also a point in favor of his method of catching with the big glove.

Elberfeld Is Optimistic.
"If the Brooklyn players play the game according to 'Robbie's' ideas they will finish close to the top," said the veteran Kid Elberfeld in discussing the Superbas the other day. "Robbie" has splendid material to work with and he knows every angle of the game. It will take some time, however, to develop the right kind of team work. We'll have a winner, sure."

Connie Mack's Secret.
The secret of Connie Mack's success is being exposed in the exchanges. It appears that McInnis, Collins, Barry and Baker have never known the taste of alcoholic liquors.

Suit Against Federals.
President Gaffney of the Braves has sued the Feds for tempting Jack Quinn to the Baltimore club. Twenty-five thousand dollars is the amount asked.
